PARIS GIVES WELCOME TO KING ALFONSO

Thirty Thousand Persons at Station to Cheer Deposed Monarch

MADRID GOVERNMENT FACES DIFFICULTIES

Uprisings by Radicals Met With Enforcement of Martial Law

PARIS, April 16 (AP).—Alfonso de Bourbon, until last Tuesday king of the oldest monarchy in Europe, stepped from a train at the Gare de Layon tonight into the most tumultuous reception that old railway station has seen in many years.

Fully 30,000 persons jammed the station and the great square on which it faces.

"Vive le Roi!" the French cried, mingling their cheers with the "Vive le Rey!" of the Spanish Loyalists.

No king who ever came into this haven of exiles, was so enthusiastically acclaimed.

COMMUNISTS ACTIVE

By CLARENCE DU-BOY
(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press)

MADRID, April 16 (AP).—Harassed only by Communist elements, Spain's new Republican Government labored vigorously to consolidate its position today, the two days and nights of wild jubilation over the fall of the monarchy.

Radical uprisings occurred at Seville and Barcelona, now under martial law. Two persons were known to have been killed and twenty-three wounded in Seville. Riots were reported at Bilbao and in several towns in Southern Spain.

Among new decrees announced was one wiping out the entire penal code, left over from the dictatorship of General Primo de Rivera, and returning the country to the criminal statutes existing before 1923, until a Republican code can be prepared.

Provisional President Niceto Alcala Zamora and Col. Francisco Macia, provisional head of the Catalonian Republic, issued statements through the Associated Press. Senor Alcala conveyed his desire for friendship with the people of the Americas, and Col. Macia expressed his cordiality toward the Spanish Republic.

Australian Gov't Well Supported

CANBERRA, Australia, April 16 (CP).—The Labor Government had a surprising success in the House of Representatives today when the Wheat Bill was given second reading by 47 votes to 16. Only the Nationalists opposed the measure.

It had been expected the Government would meet defeat, because the bill is entirely dependent on the projected issue of $90,000,000 in fiduciary notes. Under the Wheat Bill, one-third of the issue would be devoted to wheat bonuses and aid for farmers.

Earth Shocks Recorded

FRANKFORT-ON-MAIN, Germany, April 16 (AP).—The seismograph at Tuanus Observatory registered severe earth shocks last night, lasting nearly and hour and a half. They were estimated to have centred about a point, 1,863 miles from here.

Eastern Air Mail Routes Cancelled By Federal Dep't

OTTAWA, April 16 (CP).—The air mail routes were canceled by the Postoffice Department today, both of which are in Eastern Canada. The Summer flights between Montreal and Ottawa will be discontinued, while the elimination of the Montreal-Moncton-Saint John route has also been ordered. Neither of these services was operated under contract.

A third route which will be done away with is that between Toronto and Buffalo, it is understood here.

Elsewhere in Canada are a number of service of a more or less experimental character and which no contracts had been drawn between the department and aerial transportation companies. These will be discontinued in due course. It is the intention of the Government, however, not to interfere with the air mail services which have been operated under contract, so that the bulk of the international connections will be maintained.

RETAIN CONTRACT ROUTES

In retaining the contract routes, the Government was actuated by a number of considerations, chief of which was that the connection with the United States air routes gives to Canadian business men all the benefits of the vast network of air mail services operated in that country and which, in contrast to Canada's activities in that line, are being further extended this year.

The routes in Western Canada will not be greatly affected by any cancelations, it was understood here.

PROPOSALS FOR RUMANIA UPSET

Small Political Parties Demand Cabinet Posts in King Carol's Concentration Government

BUCHAREST, April 16 (AP).—King Carol's plans for a concentration government were upset today by demands of small political parties relative to cabinet posts and parliamentary mandates.

The monarch has revised his previous scheme and has insturcted Nicholas Titulescu, who is endeavoring to form a cabinet to succeed that of George Mironescu, to place alternate proposals before Julius Maniu and Ion J. Duca, respective leaders of the National Zaranists and Liberals.

The king is ready to accept either a Zaranist-Liberal coalition cabinet, or one of government departmental heads with Titulescu as Minister of the Interior and Maniu and Duca as ministers without portfolios.

India Not Ready For Autonomy Says Sir Arthur

Principal of McGill and Canada's Wartime Leader Welcomed Back to Victoria—Says British Rule Has Been Beneficial to East. Indians and Changes Should Be Considered

China More Stable Than at Any Time in Decade Under Nanking

IF civil war and disaster are to be avoided in India, progression towards the complete self-government of that country must be made with utmost caution, is the opinion of Sir Arthur Currie, principal of McGill University and Canada's Great War leader, who, with Lady Currie, arrived in Victoria from the Orient last night after a world-encircling tour in which he represented the Dominion at the opening of New Delhi in India.

Visits City on Way Home From India

principal of McGill University and Commander-in-Chief of Canadian Forces in France during the war, reached Victoria last night on his way to Montreal, after representing Canada at the opening of new Parliament Buildings at New Delhi. Sir Arthur is a former resident of the city.

Looking rather thinner than formerly, but expressing his joy at again being in Victoria, from where he went in 1914 to win the highest postion in Canada's combat forces, Sir Arthur and Lady Currie were warmly greeted by old-time friends. He was much impressed, he said, by his visit to India, and also with his stay in China and Japan. China, he declared, was in a more stable condition today than at any time during the past ten years, and offered great possibilities for development of trade from this coast.

HAPPY TO BE HERE

"I cannot say how happy I am always in visiting Victoria, my home for so long," said Sir Arthur, when interviewed on his arrival. "I have been asked to attend many functions, more than a dozen in number, all of which would have involved an address of some kind. My friends will realize that would have been an impossible task and prevented me from doing those things for which I have stopped off here. I have been away from my work so long that I am anxious to return to McGill University and Montreal as soon as possible."

Continuing, Canada's representative to the impressive ceremony of the opening of India's new capital said:

"While it was my good fortune to spend six weeks in India and Ceylon and almost another four weeks in China and Japan, I am very diffident about giving publicity to any impressions I may have formed. The population of the countries mentioned is nearly 900,000,000, and ten weeks is altogether too short a time to justify one in saying very much about what is going on in these countries. Nevertheless, they are on the front pages in the world's newspapers and almost everyone is taking some kind of an interest in them.

"We in Canada are principally interested from a commercial as well as a political standpoint. I think there can be no doubt but that more stable conditions prevail

To Invite Gandhi to Conference

By NEGLEY FARSON
(Copyright, 1931, by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service)

LONDON, April 16.—Lord Willingdon, new Viceroy of India, The Chicago Daily News understands, will arrive in Bombay tomorrow with the personal invitation of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald to Mahatma Gandhi to attend the London round table conference, as well as Mr. MacDonald's assurances of good will.

Breaking the precedent that a new Viceroy does not land in India until the outgoing Viceroy has sailed from the shores, there will be a meeting tomorrow between Lord Willingdon and Lord Irwin, at which, Indian circles here in London have been informed, Gandhi will be present.

A report that Lord Irwin will be appointed by the Labor Government as a nonparty delegate to the Round Table Conference, is also firmly believed in Congress circles in London.

LIQUOR BILL TO BE CUT IN HALF

Forty Per Cent Slump in Sales in Saskatchewan Is Reported by Liquor Board

REGINA April 16 (CP).—Saskatchewan's liquor bill will be cut nearly in half this year, according to Provincial Liquor Board officials.

A 40 per cent slump in liquor sales is reported for the fiscal year ended March 31. Profits are expected to fall far below the estimate of $2,200,000 set in February by Hon. Howard McConnel, K.C., Provincial Treasurer, in his budget address.

Prairie people are drinking less and they are drinking less expensive drinks, according to statements today by James E. Armstrong, chairman of the Saskatchewan Liquor Board.

The annual report of the liquor board will not be made public before its presentation at the next session of the Legislature.

CANON J. M. WILSON PASSES IN LONDON

LONDON, April 16 (AP).—Canon James Maurice Wilson, ninety-five, former president of the Mathematical Association, died today. He was Canon of Worcester from 1905 to 1926, an expert librarian and a theological historian.

Are Welcomed to Canada

KING Prajadhipok and Queen Bambai Barni, of Siam, who touched at Victoria last night, en route from the Orient to the Eastern United States. They were welcomed here by officials of the Dominion Government, the Provincial Government and the city. They will return to Siam in August.

Great Crisis Ends in Sweeping Victory for Labor Administration

Ramsay MacDonald Government Has Majority of 54 on Conservative Motion of Censure—Thirty-Three Liberals Vote With Ministry

LONDON, April 15 (CP).—The Government won in a canter. The great crisis—the Conservative motion of censure—ended tonight in a Government majority of 54, on a vote of 305 to 251. But it was a victory for the electric Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George, Liberal Leader, rather than a victory for the Government's unemployment programme, forcefully as Rt. Hon. Tom Johnston, Minister of Employment, presented it in the Commons today.

New Spanish Gov't Appoints Writer as Envoy at London

LONDON, April 16 (AP).—Official quarters here today confirmed a report that the Spanish writer, Perez Ayala, had been appointed Ambassador to London from the new Spanish Government, succeeding Marquis Merry Del Val. The new envoy is expected to reach London next week.

TWO COUNTRIES MAY WITHDRAW

Customs Union Row Is Threatening Existence of League of Nations

By EDGAR ANSEL MOWRER
(Copyright, 1931, by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service)

BERLIN, April 16.—The ultimate result of the serious quarrel concerning the projected Austro-German customs union may be nothing less than a crisis of the League of Nations. Such a crisis would be occasioned by the withdrawal of Germany and Austria, since the statesmen of these two countries have reason to believe that their withdrawal would be followed by those of other states.

Naturally such a withdrawal would be contemplated only in case of a series of events, all of which should turn out unfavorably to the Teutonic nations. The series would run as follows:

UNIFICATION OF EUROPE

German Foreign Minister Julius Curtius has asked the European Union Commission to consider the question on the grounds that it is a step leading to the economic unification of Europe.

The committee will criticize the plan. If it insists in its criticism, the matter will be brought before the league council.

If the criticism still persists, it will, since the Germans deny that the league council has jurisdiction in judicial matters, go before the world court.

CHANGE CONVENTION

If the court decides that the Customs Union would violate the convention of 1922, the Germans and Austrians would simply ask the council to change this convention.

Refusal by the council would be interpreted as insistence on the permanent inequality of the former victors and former conquered nations, and might well provoke Germany's and Austria's exit, and a general disruption in the league.

Barring such a crisis, there seems to be no way to prevent the realization of the planned customs union.

ONTARIO SHERIFF DIES

OTTAWA, April 16.—George C. Richardson, Sheriff of Carleton County, died this morning.

The programme itself was received with some obvious disappointment by the Liberals, but the point taken up by Lloyd George—as he led the majority of his followers into the Government lobby—was that the Conservative motion of censure was unjust and unfair until Mr. Johnston had been given a better chance. But Lloyd George's main point was what he called the danger of change in the vote.

PREMIER'S STRENGTH

The Prime Minister's strength, the Liberal leader caustically observed, "lies not in his front bench. It lies in the Conservative front benches." If the Government were defeated the Conservatives would be summoned to take office. "Did that mean food taxes?" waving his arm down the long Conservative front bench. The little Welshman questioned: "Are they 'yes' men or 'no' men?"

The tattered garment of agreement between Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader, and those who would tax food had been patched and torn and repatched so many times it looked like the pants of a tramp. Nobody knew what the Conservative policy was, he declared.

"NOT FAIR TO COUNTRY"

"I don't think," he exclaimed, "it is fair to the country that we should transfer office to the Conservatives until we know definitely and clearly and unreservedly from Mr. Baldwin what he proposes."

From the Conservative benches came the taunt "There's nothing less appetizing than a stale jibe."

"I heard that forty years ago," responded the Liberal chieftain.

The gist of the Conservative motion of censure was that the Government had failed to implement

APPOINTMENT OF BISHOP DEFERRED

Vacant Anglican See of Athabasca Will Not Be Filled Until Next September

WINNIPEG, April 16 (CP). — Appointment of a bishop to fill the vacant See of Athabasca will not be made until after the general synod of the Church of England in September.

The bishops of the Ecclesiastical Province of Rupert's Land, meeting here to consider the vacancy caused in the missionary diocese by the resignation of Rt. Rev. E. F. Robins, deferred election of a new Bishop of Athabasca ater lengthy discussion today.

Representative clergymen and laymen, including representatives of the See of Athabasca, favored immediate appointment, but the bishops refused consent.

NATIONAL GATHERING

It was stated that the general question of the episcopate and primacy will be fully discussed at the national Anglican gathering, to be held in Toronto in May, and the committee for Rupert's Land will meet again in this city in September to deal with any question which then arise.

The Bishop of the Yukon, Rt. Rev. I. O. Stringer, the Archbishop-elect of Rupert's Land, left tonight for Toronto

King of Siam Unable to Leave Cabin but Queen Receives State Welcome

Several Hundred Are Massacred as Revenge Measure

TSINAN, Shantung, April 16 (AP).—Reports that 180 out of the 200 persons in a village near Tenghsien, Shantung, had been massacred by bandits, as a revenge measure, were received here today.

Advices said the bandits wiped out the village because its populace had opposed them on a previous occasion when they attempted to loot the settlement.

First Reigning Monarchs to Visit Canada Sign Roll of City—Representatives of Dominion, Province, City, Army and Navy, Bear Greetings When Royal Ship Calls Here

Monarch Expresses Appreciation And Extends His Best Wishes

PRAJADHIPOK, King of Siam of the North and South, and of all the Dependencies, of the Laotians, of the Karens, of the Malays, Descendant of the Great God Buddha, Supreme Arbiter of the Ebb and Flow of the Tide, Brother of the Moon, Half-Brother of the Sun, and Possessor of the Four-and-Twenty Golden Umbrellas, traveling incognito as the Prince of Sukhodaya, and accompanied by his consort, Queen Rambi Barni, His Royal Highness Prince Svasti, uncle of the King and father of the Queen, and an entourage of some fifty personages, touched Canadian shores last evening when the Empress of Japan, regal ship of the Canadian Pacific's Orient fleet, docked here from ports in the Far East with the royal party from the ancient kingdom aboard.

ACCEPTS WELCOME

History was made in welcoming the royal travelers here; for it was the first occasion on which Canada has been visited by a reigning king and queen from any land beyond the seas. His Majesty was unable to officially receive the welcome extended by representatives of the Dominion and Provincial Governments, the Mayor of Victoria, and Canada's military and naval services. Her Majesty acted in the absence of the King, when she accepted on his behalf the good wishes of the Canadian people.

King Prajadhipok, members of his suite stated, caught a slight chill in Yokohama, which, compounded with a recurrence of malaria, served to rob the last stages of the trip of some of its pleasure for him. Prior to that the King had been an active and smiling member of the company of passengers on the liner. With members of his household he had taken part in the dancing, motion pictures and other entertainment arranged in honor of the distinguished passengers.

King Prajadhipok was host at a private showing of motion pictures taken on the royal tour down through Malay waters and sights seen on the way round the inland sea of the Far East. Queen Rambai Barni, educated in Paris and beautifully gowned, charmed all on board by her gracious manner and unaffected simplicity.

RECEIVES DELEGATION

Preceded by the King's chamberlain, Pra Norarag, Queen Rambai Barni, accompanied by Prince and Princess Svasti, walked the length of a long gallery leading to the beautiful ballroom on the ship, where the Queen received the official delegation. This was composed of Chief Justice the Hon. J. A. Macdonald, Administrator of British Columbia; E. J. Lemaire, Clerk of the Privy Council, representing Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett;

DEBATE MAY END MONDAY

Quebec Conservatives to Oppose Saskatchewan Stand on Language Legislation

INTERIM SUPPLY BILL GIVEN FINAL ASSENT

OTTAWA, April 16 (CP).—With the exception of the usual preliminaries, and a brief interval when members of the House of Commons went across to the Senate to see the Interim Supply Bill receive the assent of the Governor-General's Deputy, speeches on the Address debate occupied the entire day.

There now seems likelihood of the Address debate concluding this week. Monday is mentioned as the probable day for closing it up.

Wages paid to textile workers were the cause of a mild flurry when E. C. St. Pere, Liberal member for Hochelaga, spoke. Mr. St. Pere asserted that these employees were paid only $37.50 for two hours' work and, he added, he had the pay envelopes to prove the statement.

MEMBER DECLINES

"Produce them," came the demand from Armand Lavergne, Deputy Speaker and Conservative member for Montmagny, but Mr. St. Pere declined. He did not want the employees to lose their jobs, he said.

MARKETS PROBE GOES TO REGINA

Pool Witnesses Remain to Be Heard — Grain Trade Back "Futures"

WINNIPEG, April 16.—Westward across prairie farmland, tonight moved the Royal Commission seeking to determine the effect of trading in grain futures on the price received by the producer.

Four days' session ended, the inquiry, headed by Sir Josiah Stamp, journeyed to Regina, where a host of farmers have made application to testify tomorrow.

FAVOR FUTURES

Twenty-one witnesses have been heard by the commission, all but one called by the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, and all but one backed the system of buying or selling grain for future delivery.

The Canadian Wheat Pool, which spurns the opportunity of "hedging" its huge grain holdings by selling on the futures market, has not yet called a witness, though pool counsel has been attentive to evidence.

Some Grain Exchange members like to see a "wild" market, Sir Josiah learned today after questioning George E. Cathcart, large-scale speculator, in his characteristically deft and clear-thinking style.

PROTECTIVE PRIVILEGE

Mr. Cathcart, appearing for the second time before the commission, explained to the commission the use of "bids" and "offers," which are privileges granted in a half-hour period after the market close to sell or buy the following day at stipulated prices, below or above the market close of the current day.

Mr. Cathcart said that these privileges served to protect exporters, who might be offering a great deal of grain overnight, against fluctuations the following day; they also would protect a trader who was "long" against a sudden drop. The speculator-witness believed that "bids" and "offers" widened the market and improved prices by their removal of risk.

NEW CABINET FOR ARGENTINA TODAY

BUENOS AIRES, April 16 (AP).—President Uriburu, whose cabinet resigned yesterday, said in a formal statement today the necessity for forming a new Government was not a circumstance which should disturb the nation.

He said "the cabinet resignation does not constitute a Government crisis and tomorrow a new cabinet will be formed."

Two British Princes Sail For England

PERNAMBUCO, Brazil, April 16 (AP).—The Prince of Wales and his brother, Prince George, winding up their visit to South America, sailed for England aboard the steamship Arianza today.

The royal visitors spent three hours at Pernambuco. They disembarked in their shirt sleeves and went to a nearby beach where they had a swim. Later they made a motor trip around the city with the British consul.

All vessels in the harbor were decorated in honor of the visitors.

RED MENACE TO BE COMBATTED

Winnipeg Mayor Says Riot Leaders Were Paid Emissaries From Moscow

WINNIPEG, April 16 (CP).—Mayor Ralph H. Webb, ardent anti-Communist, who once threatened to "stump Canada from one end to the other if the Government didn't deport every Communist agitator in the country," today urged the formation of an organization to combat Winnipeg's "Red menace."

His Worship believed that 98 per cent of the citizens were opposed to Communism, and that 95 per cent of a mob of 6,000 unemployed who yesterday clashed with police during a demonstration, were not Red followers.

Five men were in hospital today from effects of a beating administered by police to stone-throwing, jeering, workless men, yesterday. Leaders of the demonstration, the worst here in years, were paid emissaries from Moscow, Mayor Webb declared.

"For my part," he said, "I am going to employ every means at my disposal to bring about the deportation of every known agitator in the Communistic movement in Canada."

AMERICAN GUNBOAT SENT TO NICARAGUA

WASHINGTON, April 16 (AP).—The American gunboat Sacramento today was ordered to proceed to Bluefields, Nicaragua, following receipt of a telegram from American Consul Rowe at that point, that insurgents had attacked the town of Rama, sixty miles northwest of Bluefields.

Earl of Willingdon Arrives at Bombay

BOMBAY, April 17 (AP).—The Earl of Willingdon, new Viceroy of India, arrived here at 6 o'clock this morning.

OPPOSITION FORCES IN AUSTRALIA ARE UNITING FOR BATTLE

CANBERRA, Australia, April 16 (CP).—The parties are consolidating to battle the Labor extremists when the general election comes. Today the Country party, under Dr. Earl Page, resolved to co-operate with the Nationalists and other parties in an attempt to defeat the Scullin Labor Government and re-establish what it called "sane" government.

Dr. Page will confer with Hon. J. G. Latham, official Opposition leader, and Hon. J. A. Lyons, who is leading his own campaign with this object in view.

Queen Charlottes Swept by Storms; Dock Is Damaged

PRINCE RUPERT, April 16 (CP).—Passengers from Queen Charlotte Islands, arriving here today aboard the steamer Prince John, report the islands were recently swept by violent gales and that at Queen Charlotte City the highest tides in years were recorded. Trolling boats were blown ashore by the gales, and lumber stacked near the shore floated away on the tides. The new dock at Queen Charlotte City was damaged.

Lady Yule and Party Will Arrive at Esquimalt With Steam Yacht Nahlin Today

From Los Angeles, where she has been lying for some time, the British yacht Nahlin is due to arrive at Esquimalt Harbor some time today, where she will remain at anchor for several days. The Nahlin is owned by Lady Anne Yule, widow of Sir David Yule, who amassed millions in the East Indies' jute trade. The Nahlin was built last year at the John Brown shipbuilding plant on the Clyde, and shortly after being commissioned left on a cruise of the Mediterranean. After spending Christmas in Holy Land waters, the craft returned to England with her owner and soon after left for the Panama Canal, traveling across the Atlantic with Lady Yule and a party of friends aboard.

Entering the Pacific, the yacht visited the Hawaiian Islands, later crossing to San Pedro, from which port the party visited friends in California. Now on a cruise which will be extended to Alaska, the big yacht will spend some time in British Columbia watera before proceeding North.

The Nahlin is 312 feet long, thirty-six feet wide, with a depth of twenty-one feet, has a speed of nineteen knots and is manned by a crew of fifty-one officers and men, the skipper being Captain E. T. Rainey, R.N.R. The hull is of steel, and she is rigged as a schooner. The ship has four public rooms, a smoking room, drawing-room, a gymnasium, owner's staterooms, six guest rooms and the same number of bathrooms. The owner's suites are done in the period style, and are beautifully finished in the richest of woods and furnished luxuriously.

Retiring Indian Viceroy Gives Farewell Address

Lord Irwin Makes Earnest Appeal to Hindus to Allay Fears of Their Moslem Neighbors in Working Out India's Problem

BOMBAY, April 16 (AP).—An earnest appeal to Hindus to allay the fears of their Moslem neighbors in working out India's problem was made in a farewell address today by Lord Irwin, retiring Viceroy of India, who is sailing for England Saturday.

Pointing out that he was reasonably satisfied that minorities were essential in any political society, he said that in view of what he believed was a widespread feeling of apprehension among minorities, he desired to offer a word of personal advice.

ONLY WISE COURSE

"I would say that the only wise course for the majority in a community," he said, "is to recognize frankly those apprehensions, unfounded though they might be, and to be prepared to give the minorities the reassurance they desire until such time as they, of their own free will, are prepared to let their apprehensions go."

He said that he believed such action in India would work such a change in Moslem feeling as to alter the whole atmosphere for the better and make the problems much easier to solve.

Lord Irwin received Mahatma Gandhi late today, and the two conferred for nearly an hour. It was understood that among the matters discussed was the question of how well the Government, as well as the National Congress, is observing the Indian truce.

VOW OF SILENCE

After the interview with the Viceroy, Gandhi drove to his residence, evading waiting newspapermen.

They followed the Mahatma, who dived into his room and took a vow of silence to enable him to get through his accumulated correspondence.

Gandhi will see Governor Sir Frederick Sykes tomorrow, and it is believed he will be received by Lord Willingdon the following day.

Young Girl Strikes Out Ruth and Gehrig

JACKIE Mitchell, organized baseball's first girl pitcher, struck out Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig in the first inning of an exhibition game played before a crowd of 4,000. The seventeen-year-old girl faced the Sultan of Swat and completely baffled him with her delivery. Gehrig also took three healthy swings at the pill, but the girl's pitching was also a mystery to him. Photo shows, left to right, Lou Gehrig, Jackie Mitchell, Joe Engel, and Babe Ruth.

Will Continue Probe of Depressed Silver Price

United States to Send Representatives to China and Europe for Conferences With Political and Industrial Leaders—To Discuss Trade Pacts

WASHINGTON, April 16 (AP).—The Senate foreign relations subcommittee investigating the depressed price of silver and trade relations with China has announced plans for continuing its inquiry by sending its members to China and Europe for conferences with political and industrial leaders.

The committee authorized its chairman, Senator Pittman, Democrat, Nevada, to go to China and Senators Shipstead, Farmer-Labor, Minnesota, and Swanson, of Virginia, Democrat, to go to Europe.

Pittman announced he would sail for China in about a month and spend at least a month there. He will attempt to find out the Chinese attitude toward an international conference to stabilize the price of silver and the question of China's need for financial assistance for internal development.

He said he also wanted to obtain the viewpoint of the Chinese leaders on the causes of the depression, and that the discussions might involve consideration of reciprocal trade agreements.

Pittman said in his opinion China is rapidly becoming pacified and the National Government is "making good." "It is capable of furnishing us with one of our largest foreign markets," he said.

Pittman said Swanson and Shipstead might extend their trip to India, where Great Britain is changing from a silver to a gold standard.

now in China than at any time in the past ten years.

"It would appear that since the positively declared allegiance of Marshal Chang Liang, the ruler of Manchuria, to the Nanking Government, and his acceptance of the office of vice-commander-in-chief of the land and air forces has added much to the strength of the Government, though it would be idle to contend that all of China renders obedience to Nanking.

"I had the honor of lunching with the Marshal and was much impressed by his strong personality. Conditions will not be completely stable until the Government is militarily strong enough to enforce everywhere its wishes. To my mind, the greatest obstacle to the early fruition of that desired end is the opium traffic, and apparently the drug is cultivated and transported, bought, sold and used in greater quantities than ever before, and all these things are against the laws of China. There is no doubt that the recalcitrant war lords derive their funds from the traffic in opium. Nevertheless, there are strong and able men in the present Government, several of whom I interviewed, and the situation is much more hopeful than it has been for some time.

TRADE OPPORTUNITIES

"China is the world's greatest virgin market and may become one of our greatest export markets. Our present trade between China and Japan is considerable, but it is nothing like what it may become if thoughtfully developed and jealously guarded. It has one distinct advantage which encourages the belief that it will grow to still greater proportions, i.e., that it is largely noncompetitive as far as the respective parties are concerned. Another helpful factor is the excellent transpacific steamship services. The Japanese lines are excellent, while the service rendered by our own Canadian Pacific is not excelled anywhere.

"In the Hon. Mr. Marler and his staff at Tokio, Canada's interests are in good hands, while our trade commissioners in China—Colonel Cosgrave in Shanghai and Paul Sykes in Hongkong—are keen, alert and aggressive, but the business men of Canada, if they are to reap the full benefit, must not be satisfied with what diplomatic representatives and trade agents can do. They should investigate it for themselves. We must not forget that goodwill is a factor vitally influencing trade.

VIEWS ON INDIA

"As to India, one of the most lasting impressions I have is the extraordinary kindness we experienced everywhere," went on Sir Arthur. "Nothing could exceed the courtesy and consideration shown us by that remarkable man, statesman and diplomat, the Viceroy, Lord Irwin; by the governors of the different provinces visited; by the commander in chief and other old friends of army days; by Indian princes and Indians generally. There is no doubt that India is seething with political unrest greatly fostered by Mr. Ghandi and other Congress leaders during the last ten or twelve years.

"With the Nationalist demand that India should be allowed to manage her own affairs and that she should be publicly recognized before the eyes of the world as competent to do so, is a plea for which we of the Dominions must have every sympathy, and as long as that plea is based on the grounds of national pride and national sentiment, we can find no fault with it. It is the policy of all political parties in Great Britain to allow India's status in the Empire to correspond with the status of the Dominions when that can safely be done without prejudice to the welfare of India herself and the welfare of the British Empire.

SEEK INDEPENDENCE

"Of course, India has her extremists, principally found among the younger men; these are not satisfied with self-government as we understand that term; they demand independence, a complete breaking away from the British connection, and are not averse to resorting to the methods of terrorism. Such men are enemies, and it is idle to expect to come to terms with them. The best we can hope for is that in time they may see that more can be achieved by constitutional means than by endeavoring to wreck the constitution.

"Many Indians believe that Great Britain has moved too slowly in bringing about the promised reforms. I cannot share that view. I believe the Mother Country is thoroughly sincere in her intentions and has moved as fast as has been safe if we are to avoid the risk of civil war, caste or religious tyranny or the wronging of minorities and humble classes who cannot protect themselves.

"I do not for a moment contend that Indians are not to be found who are fully competent in all respects to hold every position in the gift of the Government from the highest to the lowest, but I believe there are undeniable obstacles to the attainment of complete self-government at once and that this ideal is fraught with such significance that it would be most unwise and imprudent to attempt to hasten it artificially. Yet we must prosecute with vigor the effort to find the constitutional solution to the ideals and aspirations that are moving India today.

SUCCESSFUL RULE

"Friends of India and friends of self-government must not lose sight of the fact that Britain has made India what it is today. They have neither enslaved nor exploited India and they have given her peace. With that unspeakable boon have come manifold material advantages. They have encouraged education by the establishment of schools and universities. They have organized famine relief and fought disease scientifically. They have opened up the land, making roads and building railways, and have greatly increased the country's wealth by constructing large irrigation works. Britain's investment in India runs into hundreds of millions sterling. All these things must not be jeopardized by ill-considered action at the present time.

"One must be in India much longer than I have been to appreciate the social problems of India, where can be found the richest and the poorest people of the world, the most cultured and the most illiterate. It is these social problems which give complexity to the present political situation and make doubly difficult the solution of the problem.

"Let me say in conclusion that I am wonderfully proud to have been asked to represent Canada on such an epoch-making occasion as the Inauguration of New Delhi."

its election pledges with regard to unemployment.

OPENS THE DEBATE

Mr. Baldwin, in opening the debate, quoted freely from Labor speeches made during the halcyon election days when Labor men dreamed dream and saw visions. He spoke of the phantom ships of Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas' Canadian trip, and declared the Government had shown itself absolutely incapable.

Mr. Johnston spoke from a large pile of documents. Occasionally he stopped to read from a typewritten speech. He held that the Government had carried out the major pledges of its official programme, and argued that Great Britain's unemployment problem had been intensified by decreased migration to the Dominions.

UNEMPLOYMENT PROPOSALS

He submitted the following additional unemployment proposals:

1. Assistance to rural housing.
2. Encouragement from the extraction of oil from coal.
3. Extension of the time for Russian credits from twelve to eighteen months.
4. Encouragement of tourist traffic.
5. A study of electrification for British railways.
6. Reforestation.

The debate was preceded by one of those incidents which make all Westminster kin. As usual on Thursday, the leader of the opposition formally questioned the Prime Minister on the House business for the following week.

FORGOT HIS PAPERS

As Mr. Baldwin put the question today, the House roared at the thought of a Government under challenge solemnly announcing subsequent business. The incident turned to comedy when Mr. MacDonald discovered he had forgotten his papers. Mr. Baldwin thereupon handed across the table a copy of the papers which Mr. MacDonald had given him in advance. And from Mr. Baldwin's copy, Mr. MacDonald, with the House still laughing, announced what the business would be after the turmoil of the debate was done.

There were wild scenes as the result of the vote was announced. The Laborites, including the sometimes recalcitrant left-wingers, burst into cheers, and the demonstration lasted for several minutes. Then the members dispersed to talk over the night's events.

THE FIRST REACTION

The first reaction was a general conviction that Mr. MacDonald's party now sits more firmly in the saddle than at any time since the Labor Government took office nearly two years ago.

Thirty-three Liberals voted with the Government, ten were against it, and five abstained. On the Labor side, seven members, forming Sir Oswald Mosley's "new party," abstained from viting, but several Independents supported the Laborites.

CAMPS WILL NOT BE HELD for British Columbia. In addition there were a few local camps.

PERMANENT FORCE

The usual training camps for the permanent force will be continued.

The statement issued by the department today follows:

"In accordance with the estimates submitted to Parliament, the amount available for the nonpermanent active militia for the current year will be $1,606,000 in comparison with $2,324,500 provided last year. In consequence great economies will have to be effected in training.

ARTILLERY CAMPS

"It is, therefore, proposed not to hold any artillery practice camps, district, central or other camps, or district camp schools, but to concentrate attention on individual training of officers, N.C.O.'s and specialists, as it is most essential that this form of training should be retained in order that there may be no interruption in the qualification of officers and other ranks, and the standard of military education should be maintained; and to prevent administrative difficulties due to not having qualified personnel available to fill vacancies.

"The instruction above referred to includes the militia staff course, small arms school, signal school at Camp Borden, R.M.C. long course and all royal and provisional schools.

LOCAL HEADQUARTERS

"The balance of the funds, after providing for the above, will be used for training at local headquarters only in order that the units may have some opportunity of maintaining their organizations. The funds available will permit of training corps which are localized in the cities for approximately five days, and such other corps as can train with advantage at local headquarters for about four days."

She Won—"Didn't some idiot propose to you before we got married?" he said, when the row was at its height on that chill and storm night. "He did," she replied with honeyed sweetness. "Well, I wish to the—I wish you'd married him." "I did, darling," she murmured.

The cost of living in Australia has decreased materially in the last year.

King Will Not Attend Race Meet

WINDSOR, Eng., April 18 (AP).—The King is continuing to make satisfactory progress toward recovery from his bronchial attack, it was officially stated at the palace this morning. It was said that he was getting on so well that no further statements as to his condition would be issued.

Although His Majesty's plans are still somewhat uncertain, it did not appear today that he could pursue his original purpose of visiting Newmarket for the race meet there at the end of the month. He probably will, however, return to Buckingham Palace May 4, in accordance with arrangements made before he caught his cold.

Five new motor cars for the use of the King and Queen arrived at Windsor today. One is a limousine for the King's use. It has a cowl-like projection on its roof, which is understood to be a special ventilating device to eliminate all unnecessary drafts.

The King left his apartment for the first time since he was stricken with bronchitis. He did not go into the castle grounds, but went from his apartment to another part of the castle.

DEBATE MAY END MONDAY

Manitoba farmers are looking to the Government to see that Churchill has a fair chance to operate as an ocean port. They want railway rates to the Hudson Bay terminal, as well as ocean freight and marine insurance rates to be such that the new port can do business. This was the statement of W. G. Weir, Liberal member for Macdonald, Manitoba.

From Dr. Emile Fortin, Conservative member for Levis, came the declaration that French-Canadian Conservatives would stand in opposition to Premier Anderson of Saskatchewan and his French language legislation. Dr. Fortin reminded the Western Premier that the wife of Canada's new Governor-General is a French lady.

The depression which Canada was undergoing was a reflection of world conditions, said C. E. Bothwell (Liberal, Swift Current), and for that no party in this country was responsible.

BANK LEADER SAYS CREDIT NOT REFUSED

Beaudry Leman Answers Charges Arising From Conditions on Prairies

EXPLAINS BASIS FOR INTEREST CHARGES

Says Majority of Western Farmers Not Insolvent or Hopelessly in Debt

MONTREAL, April 16 (CP). — "The banks desire to state that there has been no general withholding of credit, and that they are today, as in the past, considering demands from their Western farmer clients and granting advances which appear justified to place the principal of loans in jeopardy, upon which there is a fair prospect of receiving interest and which may be repaid within a reasonable time," Beaudry Leman, president of the Canadian Bankers' Association and general manager of the Banque Canadienne Nationale, said in a formal statement issued today.

Interest rates charged were based upon expenses incurred in the loan business, Mr. Leman said. His declaration was inspired by complaints made lately in and out of Parliament that banks had closed down on farmer loans or were charging exorbitant interest rates where loans were authorized.

FUNCTION OF BANKS

So far as loans were concerned, he pointed out that banks' functions did not permit them indiscriminately to become "silent partners" of the farmer; that the Bank Act limited loan operations, and rightly so, for money loaned was not bank or public funds but the savings of depositors. Loans were available where interest and repayment in a reasonable time were apparent, Mr. Leman said. Interest rates were governed by the business done. In the West loans were mostly for small and numerous accounts, and the handling was costly. Lowering of rates would inevitably mean curtailment of farmer credit.

Mr. Leman deprecated statements making it appear that the major portion of Western farmers were insolvent or hopelessly in debt. The banks could not let such statements go unchallenged. There were thousands of farmers in Western Canada who were depositors and not borrowers. Amongst those who borrowed, but a small percentage had assumed obligations which placed them in a precarious position, he said.

WILL NOT BRING CREDIT

"Credit will not be attracted to the West by picturing conditions as bordering on disaster," he added.

The banks would be glad to receive complaints of definite cases in which credit was held up. Only in this way could an error in judgment on the part of any local manager be corrected, Mr. Leman said.

"Instead of visiting complaints with reprisal, as appears to be feared, the banks will always welcome communications which would enable them to rectify any such error, or to explain fully the reasons for their action in not entertaining credit applications," he added.

LOANS INCREASED

As indicated by returns from a bank very strongly entrenched in the Prairies, loans to farmers by this bank at the end of December, 1930, exceeded similar loans at the same date in 1929 by 16½ per cent, Mr. Leman said. If a similar detailed examination were made in the branches of all other banks, the combined result would probably not differ materially from this figure, he added.

Seventy-six per cent of the loans throughout the Prairie Provinces bore a rate of 7 per cent or under, he continued, while 20 per cent of the loans bore from 7 to 8 per cent.

RATES IN MONTANA

"Recent inquiries in Montana, where conditions are comparable with those in the southern part of Alberta, reveal the fact that in the best banks farmers pay 8 per cent to 10 per cent, and that the bulk of the loans for $500 and under is made at the latter rate.

"No other institutions are more vitally or sympathetically interested in the progress of agriculture in the Prairie Provinces than are the chartered banks of Canada.

"As evidence of this good will, the Canadian banks have all promptly agreed to contribute to the share of capital of the Dominion Agricultural Credit Company, Limited, now being organized on the initiative of E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company.

URGES DIVERSIFICATION

The Canadian banks believe that, even if diversified farming cannot be developed with an equal measure of success in all sections of the Prairie Provinces, it should be of great assistance to thousands of farmers by at least contributing directly to the maintenance of their own households.

"The welfare of the banks is dependent upon the welfare of their customs, and it will in the future, as in the past, be the earnest desire of the banks to serve this great farming community with such credit facilities as can be afforded in accordance with sound banking principles."

INJURED MAN MAY BE NOTED FLYER

Cloud of Mystery Surrounds Hospital Patient in Wyoming—May Be Capt. C. J. Williams

CHEYENNE, Wyo., April 16 (AP). —Boeing Air Transport officials and county authorities today were attempting to clear a cloud of mystery surrounding the identity of a hospital patient here whom they believe may be Captain C. J. Williams, formerly of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

The patient, who gave his name as Cornelius Williams, is believed to be irrational, hospital authorities said. He stumbled into a physician's office here a month ago with injuries which he said he received when he fell from a windmill near Burns, Wyo.

From his talk while confined in the hospital, physicians believed he may have been a former aviator.

Additional weight was given this theory today when a letter was received from an Elmer F. Davis, who described himself as a transport pilot, which said the patient is Captain Williams. The letter said Williams and Captain Poindexter Carter flew from London to Capetown about five years ago and that Williams is an internationally-known aeronautical authority.

The envelope in which the latter was received was destroyed before the letter was read and the address of Davis was not given on the inside. Davis was not known here by Boeing officials. Williams has several broken ribs and other internal injuries, but is believed to be recovering.

KING OF SIAM UNABLE TO LEAVE CABIN BUT QUEEN RECEIVES WELCOME

Acting Premier the Hon. R. H. Pooley, K.C.; Mayor Herbert Anscomb, of Victoria; Brigadier J. Sutherland Brown, Officer Commanding Military District No. 11; and Commander Leonard W. Murray, R.C.N., senior naval officer of the port. His Honor was attended by A. M. D. Fairbairn.

Upwards of fifty newspapermen and a battery of flashlight cameras lined the gallery leading to the ballroom, Queen Rambi Barni and her escort good naturedly facing the flashing lights, and the clicking shutters on entering and leaving the place of reception.

RETURNS GOOD WISHES

Prince Amoradat Kridakara, Siamese Minister at Washington, D.C., presented the official delegation to Queen Rambai Barni, who spoke briefly to each member of the party, and returned the cordial good wishes expressed by His Honor the Administrator and members of his delegation. Chief Justice Macdonald, E. J. Lemaire, Hon. R. H. Pooley, K.C., Mayor Anscomb, Brigadier J. Sutherland Brown and Commander L. W. Murray were formally presented to the Queen, who captured all hearts by her gracious presence.

Other members of the royal household, including Prince and Princess Svasti were met in turn, the brief ceremony concluding with the presentation to Queen Rambai Barni by Mayor Anscomb of a gigantic basket of beautiful roses, the floral gift of the "Rose City of the West," Victoria.

SIGNS VISITORS' ROLL

King Prajadhipok signed the visitors' roll of the city of Victoria, taken to him by the chamberlain; Queen Rambai Barni, Prince Svasti, Prince Chirasakti, and Prince Amoradat Kridakata also appending their signatures, before the book was returned to His Worship.

Following the presentation to Her Majesty, Prince Svasti met the representatives of the press in the smoking room of the liner, where he was photographed in company with E. J. Lemaire, Brigadier J. Sutherland Brown and Commander L. W. Murray, after which he read the following message from King Prajadipok:

"I regret that my indisposition prevented my receiving the officials who came to welcome us at Victoria, and also has compelled the cancellation of the arrangements that were so hospitably made for our brief stay in Vancouver. I am glad, however, that later during our visit to this continent the Queen and myself will have a real opportunity to see something of this great Dominion, a vigorous and growing member of the British Commonwealth of Nations.

"I desire to acknowledge with gratitude the many expressions of good will that have been extended to us. I am aware that in a large measure these courtesies express also a feeling of sympathy and friendship for the people of my kingdom, a fact that makes them the more deeply accpreciated."

WAS AT WOOLWICH

King Prajadhipok is in his thirty-eight year, having been born in November, 1893. He ascended the Throne of Siam in November, 1925, being the only remaining full brother of Rama VI, the previous ruler. Prajadhipok was educated at Eton and studied at the Royal Military Academy at Woolwich, passing out as lieutenant, Royal Horse Artillery, in 1914. Following the Great War, in which Siam was represented by 500 trained aviators and a full equipment of airplanes on the side of the Allies, the young prince spent several years on the continent of Europe completing his military training.

The King and Queen of Siam have no heir. The former King, Rama VI, was also without issue. Rama VI instituted monogamy in Siam and considerably upset traditions, for his father had been the possessor of a harem numbering 600 wives, and is credited with 370 children, 236 girls and 134 boys. Of these eight sons are still in line for succession to the Throne.

There are some interesting stories told of the two recent monarchs of Siam. When the former king undertook to abolish the harem on his accession, the announcement that he would wed only one wife upset traditions existing for thousands of years. His first choice of a wife was unfortunate. A cousin, she did not prove compatible, and the engagement soon ended. His next choice, also a cousin, was a half-sister of his previous fiancee. Abence of an heir after everal years resulted in her being demoted. Marrying again, on the day after his death, the queen bore Rama VI a baby girl.

BROTHERS WORKING

King Prajadhipok has put all his brothers to work. Between them they divide the great majority of government offices. "In my own family," he once told his relatives, "the princes who have no capacity and ability have nothing to do with government service. I, therefore, take the opportunity of advising you that you who are fortunate enough to be of this honorable family should in future try to better yourselves by special qualifications."

The King of Siam is an absolute monarch and appoints his successor. He has an Executive Council of Ministers with an adviser on foreign affairs (usually from the United States), and a financial adviser (hitherto always of British nationality), and since 1895 a Legislative Council of State, consisting of the ministers, eight royal princes and some twenty members at large appointed by the King, who, of course, can veto anything they recommend not to his liking. There is also a Supreme Council of Five, who advise the King on the more important matters affecting the country. A number of British, French, Americans, Danes and Italians are employed in the various state departments.

LIVE QUIET LIFE

Since his coronation, the King of Siam and his Queen have led a quiet modern life. The Queen, considered the most beautiful woman in Siam, belongs to the socially accomplished class of Siamese women which Rama and his father, Chulalongkuri, had encouraged. The King is intensely interested in the welfare of his country, and is credited with placing Siam in an enviable financial position. At the time of his accession to the Throne there had been a deficit for four years, but in the following two the situation had been much improved. Roads are being constructed, some mail is being carried by airplane and many wireless stations have been installed. Educationally, great advancement has been made. At present there are some four hundred government schools and more than four thousand schools of all descriptions in Siam, attended by 450,000 children. Chief Chulalaukarana University is organized with faculties of medicine, political science, engineering, literature and science.

While appreciating the amenities of modern life, King Prajadhipok has not by any means discarded the colorful customs and ceremonies of Eastern color with Western progress. Among other things he maintains a troupe of players to perform the national dances and plays of Siam, and is fond of religious fetes and holidays, when he appears as the true Oriental monarch in processional rites.

MOVING PICTURE FAN

From the first a moving picture fan, the ruler of Siam chose himself as the chief censor of films entering the kingdom, and in his official capacity views often as many as fifty films in a day and night. This is given as one reason for the eye trouble with which he is afflicted, and which brings him and his party to America for treatment at this time. The choice of American rather than European specialists is stated to be because of the important work American science has accomplished in Siam, where there are several hospitals endowed by Americans.

Following the arrival of the royal party in Vancouver, the members will occupy "Shannon," the residence of Mrs. B. T. Rogers, for the day, after which they will leave the Coast on a special Canadian Pacific train, which will cross the mountains and enter the United States at Portal, North Dakota. Paying a visit to Washington, and after a consultation with eye specialists at Baltimore, His Majesty will undergo one or more operations at the hands of Dr. R. Morrison, New York, who attended King Prajadhipok when the latter was in the United States some six years ago. While in the East, Mrs. Whitelaw Reid's Ophir Hall estate, situate in Westchester County, is to be the residence of the royal party, who will return to Siam in the late Summer by way of the Canadian Pacific steamships sailing from Vancouver and Victoria.

The Government has not yet fixed the dates for the election designed to form a parliamentary cortes and set up a permanent ministry, whether it will be held in June or later remains to be decided.

REPUBLIC RECOGNIZED

Foreign Minister Alejandro Lerroux announced that Mexico and Uruguay had recognized the new republic and that Argentina shortly would do likewise. Meanwhile, several Spanish ambassadors in foreign capitals had resigned and their successors were being appointed.

Marcelino Domingo, new Minister of Education, said that Spanish universities, closed since the Easter holidays, because of student disorders, would reopen Monday.

Supporters of the old order continue to take leave of their native land and banished Republicans still crossed the frontiers to fill their places. Resignations of Royalists officeholders and army chiefs poured in and Republicans were appointed in their stead.

The king's personal quarters have not yet been entered by any Republican official and remain in charge of servants until he indicates what disposition he wishes made of his possessions.

By-Law Is Rejected

NORTH VANCOUVER, April 16 (CP).—North Vancouver ratepayers rejected the $60,000 Ferry Terminals Improvement By-Law in a plebiscite here today. The vote on the measure stood: For, 225; against, 301. In as much as a three-fifth majority was necessary to carry the by-law, it was overwhelmingly defeated. Defeat of the by-law brings users of the ferries face to face with a possibility of an increased fare, according to Alderman H. C. Anderson, chairman of the finance committee

SIR ARTHUR CURRIE

Returning from a visit to India where he officiated as Canada's representative at the official opening of the capital at New Delhi, Sir Arthur Currie, Principal of McGill University, and former Commander-in-Chief of Canada's troops in the Great War, is again a visitor in Victoria. It was from here he left on the Great Adventure overseas which established his fame as a soldier. Shortly after the war he was appointed Principal of McGill, a post to which he has brought even greater distinction than it enjoyed in the past and under his administration that university has gained in prestige and strength. Sir Arthur has won his spurs in both peace and war and established his right to the title of a great Canadian.

He is always heartily welcome back to this city where he spent so many years of his life in the pre-war days and where it is hoped he will settle down when his labors at McGill are over. Sir Arthur is regarded with both pride and admiration by our citizens who feel that they enjoy a reflected glory in the triumphs he has won. In the manner in which he acquitted himself as Canada's envoy to New Delhi he has added to a notable scroll of achievement. He is one of those national figures who invest whatever task is attempted with dignity and the assurance of a successful outcome. Because of this Sir Arthur has made himself a personal asset in the fortunes of the Dominion.

NO DOLE IN CANADA

Mr. R. B. Bennett's pronouncement on his Government's attitude towards unemployment insurance is unequivocal. He does not dally with the subject as other politicians have done. He says outright that Canada, under the Conservative regime, "will not put a premium on idleness." There is no dole wanted in this country. The vast body of public opinion is opposed to it because it saps initiative and enterprise, encourages idleness and weakens the moral fibre. The Prime Minister will not subscribe to a policy that tends to destroy men's self support. In this attitude he has the allegiance of all those who envisage the destiny of Canada as determined to live by the development of her almost unlimited natural resources.

The Federal Government has already shown its willingness to meet emergent conditions of unemployment by the provision of special works. It was to arrange for relief that one of the first acts of the Conservative Government after taking over office was to arrange for an emergency session of Parliament for the purpose of voting moneys for the creation of work. It is the policy of providing such work directly, and creating the conditions that foster industrial development, that still stands in the forefront of Conservative proposals. It is the only self-respecting course of action for a country like Canada to follow. In whatever is done, however, the knowledge must be borne in mind that there are limits to the strain that can be imposed on the pockets of the taxpayers. It is by private and public co-operation that the problem of unemployment can be relieved. In the meantime all Canada will applaud Premier Bennett's outspoken decision against the dole. No one correctly informed of conditions where the dole prevails will doubt that his attitude is the right one. The Prime Minister says that such a policy of public charity in this Dominion would be "suicidal."

UNLIMITED MONARCHY

The visit to those shores of their majesties of Siam will draw popular attention to the only nation in Southern Asia which has maintained its independence. Siam, with an area of 225,000 square miles, or equal to Spain and Portugal combined, has a population of 11,500,000. Siam and Siamese are European terms. The people there call themselves the Thai, which means "the free," and their country Muang-Thai, meaning "the land of the free." They are of Mongolian stock. Their capital is Bangkok with a population of 500,000, and it is the gateway for ninety per cent of the trade and commerce of the nation.

An absolute monarchy reigns in Siam but it is of a benevolent character. The King is the law-giver, the executive and the judge. He raises all taxes and exercises all authority. As well as being the source of temporal power he is also the Defender of the Buddhist Faith. Siam is one of the few remaining nations in the world where unlimited monarchy has existed from the founding of the country. The present Royal Family there has ruled for 150 years, and previously, while there were changes in the Ruling Dynasty, the principle of absolutism has never been questioned and the stability of conditions has always been maintained. The purpose of government in the country is decreed as, "to establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defence, promote the general welfare and secure the blessings of liberty." In writing of the future of Siam Sir Edward Cook, the late financial adviser to the government of that country, said:

"Much will depend on the success of the efforts now being made to build up a Siamese commercial class and thus to counter the hold possessed by Chinese immigrants upon the country's economic life—a hold which is at present so firm as to contain potentialities of danger. But, as for the Siamese themselves, their particularly happy temperament, which makes them such an attractive people to live among, their national religion and the close union between Church and State, their fortunate freedom from alien rule, the lightness of taxation and a standard of living distinctly higher than among the peasantry of India and China, do not constitute a favorable breeding ground for revolutionaries, and it seems likely that any changes which may occur will be of slow growth and will bring no abrupt breach of continuity with the past."

SPRING FLOWER SHOW

Victoria has always had an enviable reputation for its flowers. Climatic conditions here are peculiarly favorable for their development. It is a city of gardens which express themselves almost all the year round in what Longfellow has called those "stars in earth's firmament." There is a reminder of what these gardens can achieve in the annual Spring Flower Show which is being held today and tomorrow in the new manufacturers' building at the Willows which will be officially open to the public for the first time. Thus there can be a dual purpose for those who visit the Willows in the course of the next few days—that of giving their support to the efforts of the Vancouver Island Horticultural Association in its campaign to advertise Victoria's floral attractions, and that of seeing the commodious structure that has been added as an imposing asset to this city's exhibition facilities.

The Spring Flower Show is mainly for the purpose of exhibiting bulb varieties. It has attracted entries from the State of Washington, from the British Columbia Mainland and from various Vancouver Island points. In fact the exhibits promise to provide a more impressive galaxy in variety of beauty than has been the case in any previous Spring Show. The setting, too, will be more attractive, for the new building has more space and better facilities than have ever been available here before. Victorians are such flower lovers that they have only to be reminded of the dates and location of such an exhibition to insure their attendance in large numbers. They can be certain of an excellent exhibition, the best of its character ever held in this locality. Incidentally, public enthusiasm will add to the value of the show as an advertising asset in the fortunes of Victoria.

A JUBILEE TAG DAY

The annual tag day of the Women's Auxiliary of the Provincial Royal Jubilee Hospital is being held tomorrow, and, as in the past, it is an appeal that will be assured of a ready response from the public. Pride in such institutions and a determination to make them all they should be are matters of civic patriotism. The Women's Auxiliary is a body that provides comforts and accessories that add to the well being and happiness of patients in hospital. The work of these ladies is of the self-sacrificing order and self imposed and they have no hope of reward. They are inspired by the instincts of humanitarianism, but must depend in large part for what they are able to do on public generosity. That is why a tag day is held. Their work is deserving of a hearty measure of support.

Hospital needs grow more insistent each year; the difficulties of financing them accumulate. The Women's Auxiliary of the Jubilee always has done and is doing what lies in its power to add to the efficiency of service possible to those who suffer, and especially to those whose poor circumstances render them unable to enjoy the advantages which should be made available in a time of sickness. This is the thought which, if borne in mind by the public, will loosen purse strings in the course of tomorrow's appeal.

Premier Taschereau of Quebec is unique among provincial leaders. An election is to be held in that province in June and Mr. Taschereau expects that his party will make gains, but he does not hope for such a result. In fact he would prefer that the opposition was strengthened. How many political parties candidly wish their opponents to gain seats in a contest?

In a period of less than five years Calgary's population has increased from 65,513 to 81,636. This is shown by a municipal census just taken. Just what was the notion in taking such a count on the eve of a Federal census is not explained.

YOUTH AND AGE

People have got into the habit of saying that this is the era of "young men." Youth, they declare, has never been so conspicuously in the ascendant before. And age—even middle age—it seems, is being hustled into the grave by beings scarcely out of the cradle. As it happens, the facts about "age" are not at all the same as the fiction about youth. Look at the first half dozen celebrities whose names step into mind, say, Shaw, Barrie, Inge, Wells, Kipling, Lodge. They are men who are in the full stream of the current of life; the men for whom this age will be remembered. And their ages are respectively seventy-four, seventy, seventy, sixty-four, sixty-five and seventy-nine.—Norman Collins in The London News-Chronicle.

The company of just and righteous men is better than wealth and a rich estate.—Euripides.

No man ever became extremely wicked all at once.—Juvenal.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

"'Twas for the good of my country that I should be abroad.—Farquhar.

The most notable event of the year 1931, which promises to be the most notable year of modern times, happened when the last remaining branch of the once illustrious tree of the Bourbons was lopped off and cast aside by the Socialists of Spain. The ruling tree of the Bourbons was planted away back in the tenth century of the Christian era. It flourished luxuriantly and was the parent tree of shoots which took root in the soil of most of the more important nations of Europe. A shoot from the parent tree was even planted in America, but the atmosphere of this continent was not congenial, and the feeble plant speedily withered and died.

There is an old epigram about the weaknesses and limitations of the Bourbons, but with all their shortcomings and their errors, the history of the Bourbons proves that they played a most important part in the affairs of the world until the period of the French Revolution, and some part in the history of the world until the end of the Great War. The Bourbon family tree, planted in the tenth century, flourished until it sent forth four branches. As time passed the branches were lopped off one by one, until only the Spanish branch remained.

But there was neither robust life nor constitutional vitality left in the Spanish branch of the ancient Bourbon tree after the violent death of the French branch of it. The establishment of a republic in France and later in Portugal left poor Alfonso of Spain in a state of monarchical isolation. The glory of the kings had departed and the ideal of republicanism swept across the frontier and took firm root in Spain. The King attempted to stem the swift tide of republican sentiment, but the current was too strong, and the throne was finally undermined and toppled into the flood. Even an alliance with the English House of Windsor was not sufficient to save it from the inevitable collapse. We fear the last of the Bourbons was never what might justly be termed a heroic figure, but Alfonso appears to have been different in at least one respect from most of his forbears. He had learned something from his circumstances, and whether he ever will forgive the creators of the circumstances is not a matter of great importance, for when kings in these latter days either willingly abdicate or are pulled from a throne by force, they are never likely to get back. So it is to the credit of the exiled monarch that he retired more or less gracefully, bowed his Imperial head to circumstances, and was not responsible for the possible shedding of the blood of his rebellious subjects.

The chances are that the fugitive king will follow the example of many other royal exiles and take up his residence in England, the last and the secure refuge of many weary royal pilgrims. If Alfonso upon his arrival in the only land where all men and women are really free and equal were to graciously grant an interview to the ever-eager gentlemen of the press (which he probably wont) and were to speak frankly and candidly for publication, he would probably say he was sick, tired and weary of his late thankless and unprofitable job, delighted to shed all his responsibilities, and to have opportunities to really enjoy what remains of his life. We are quite sure that his amiable consort will be glad to be home again and to mingle socially with her own people. The last condition of the royal family may even be more tolerable than the future condition of their late disloyal subjects. For a change in a system of government hardly ever effects a change for the better in the condition of a nation.

Alfonso's troubles are at an end. The troubles of the new republic are just beginning, whatever the exulting democratic scribes of this and other countries may have to say about it. The experience of every nation which has changed from a monarchy, or even from an autocracy, to a democracy proves what has been said, that a democratic form of government is the most expensive form of government. Under a dictatorship there is but one master; under a democracy there is a multitude of masters, and the multitude takes care that it is well paid for its services and that the people who are theoretically all free and equal are highly taxed for the suitable maintenance of their multitude of masters. The ultra-democratic slogan is that the laborer is worthy of his hire, and the patriotic laborer enjoys the unusual privilege of fixing the amount of that hire.

The only matter in which Alfonso will suffer, therefore, is in the small matter of his dignity. But the recollection of that will pass after the exile settles down in his new home and reads about what is happening in his old home. Spain was shorn of her ancient glory long ago. She was once a powerful empire, the most powerful and the richest empire in the world. She had possessions in all the continents of the world, vast trade and immense wealth. Her Imperial decline and fall was not contemporary with that of Rome, but her fall was quite as great. The successors of the Romans appear to be dreaming dreams of establishing Italy as a dominant world power; but history will not repeat itself in the case of Spain whatever it may do in the case of Rome.

THE STORMIEST SEA

Some ships sail out always on placid tides
And meet no tempests on their happy course,
Before their prows a singing sea divides
And favoring winds lend them their kindly force;
While others struggle on through angry waves,
With timbers trembling from terrific blows,
Their sailors picturing deep, unquiet graves
On the white floor where ceaseless ocean flows.

So would I go, a ship that fears no gale,
But gains in courage every storm-wracked hour,
And while it fights its way with close-reefed sail
Rejoices fiercely in its new-found power.
I would wrest triumph from adversity,
And gain my goal through even the stormiest sea!

CALGARY POLICE DENY SHIPPING JOBLESS OUT OF CITY IN BOX CARS

CALGARY, April 16 (CP).—Emphatic denial that Calgary city police officers were herding unemployed into box cars and speeding them out of the city, as charged by J. S. Woodsworth, M.P. for Winnipeg, in the House of Commons on Wednesday, was made by Chief of Police David Ritchie today.

"The suggestion that we are rounding up unemployed and herding them onto railway property and into box cars is nothing short of ridiculous," Chief Ritchie said.

"A number of men are arrested every week on vagrancy charges, and in many cases they are given twenty-four hours by the court to leave the city. We are not directly concerned where these men go or what methods they employ to get away from the city. We do not see them from the time they leave police headquarters, unless we happen to find them hanging around town again."

The time used is Pacific Standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turnings.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of low water.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Esquimalt drydock at any tide, add 18.3 feet to the height of high water as above given.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Bonsbees drydock add 30 feet to the height of high water as above given.

ST. GEORGE'S DAY TO BE OBSERVED

Celebration Here Will Take the Form of a Grand Supper—Open to All

The observance of St. George's Day, April 23, throughout the Empire, which also connects with it the commemoration of the birth and death of the greatest literary genius of all time, William Shakespeare, will be celebrated this year in Victoria in a way which is truly national and patriotic. The day will be observed, not by holding a banquet, but a supper, in which most of the citizens will feel free to take part. Supper will be served in the gymnasium of the Memorial Hall at 7 o'clock on Thursday, April 23. Dean C. S. Quainton will preside.

The entire musical programme will be supplied by the choristers of St. George's School, Crescent, under the direction of Rev. P. Chapman, headmaster, and an accomplished musical director. The choristers consist of nine boy soprano singers, whose repertoire includes many old English songs and ballads, which will be sung. The soloist of the group is Harold Green, whose singing of Handel's "Angels Ever Bright and Fair" for the Santa Claus Fund, sponsored by The Vancouver Daily Province, netted $375 for that fund. He will be heard in several solo numbers during the evening.

The commemoration of St. George's Day was for centuries a national holiday in England. It recalls such stirring events in English history as the Crusades, Richard I. called the "Lion-Hearted." It was under the banner of St. George that the glorious victories of Cressy, Poitiers and Agincourt were won. It recalls the stirring deeds of Drake and Raleigh, of Grenville, who challenged the Spanish fleet with only one ship, rather than surrender. The banner of St. George remains to this day the Admiral's flag. St. George's Day brings to mind the great victory at Zeebrugge.

Perhaps the greatest event in English history was the birth of Shakespeare, which occurred on St. George's Day. Such an event in itself is worthy of universal celebration; and, perhaps, in no country throughout the world will the name of the bard of Stratford be forgotten.

Those intending to participate in the celebration are asked to secure their tickets at Fletcher's music store or Litchfield's book store.

SAANICH HIGH SCHOOL BY-LAW

Sir,—I would like to congratulate the council and the school board upon the letter being sent to all the ratepayers in regard to the High School By-law. May I be permitted to urge the vital importance of everyone's recording his vote in its favor.

As regards the outer wards, it is self-evident that from every aspect this scheme is the only one which will be advantageous to them. At present our children are forced to go practically into Victoria to get their tuition, which, apart from the heavy transportation charges incurred, is in some cases a source of danger to the nervous system of the scholars, condemned as they are to a daily stage ride of some thirty miles. This was stated by the medical officer of health for Saanich to be detrimental to the children by impairing their nervous systems.

I appeal to those in the inner wards to make some brotherly and sisterly consideration for their fellow citizens in the outer wards. I am sure if they realized, they would not wish to condemn the parent of the children in the outer wards, to pay one hundred dollars yearly for transportation fees, or, penalize the children and endanger their health by making them leave their homes at 7:30 a.m., not returning home till 6:30 p.m.

Another factor is that three high schools will not increase our taxes more than the poor and inefficient way that the school trustees are obliged to carry on at the present time.

MONTAGUE W. J. BRUCE.
President, Saanich Board of Trade.
Saanichton, B.C., April 16, 1931.

SAANICH HIGH SCHOOLS

Sir,—Saanich is about to vote on a by-law authorizing the building of three high schools at an estimated cost of $93,000, which, as is usual where public money is concerned, may ultimately amount to $——? Wait and see. Now, sir, of these reputed 300 aspirants for such accommodation, possibly twenty-five will prove to have the ability and inclination to stay the course, and it seems to me that it would be wise in such times as this to refrain from joining this orgy of squandermania which governments and other bodies entrusted with the handling of public monies appear to be obsessed with.

A correspondent suggests the addition of classrooms where necessary, or I might add, the collection of some of these "unemployed" schoolhouses within the municipality, which somehow reflect upon the lack of clear vision on the part of those handling school affairs. These schools have not tesselated floors or marble bathrooms, but it is possible that they might "serve," for as a famous general (not Pershing) said: "The frontal attack will be costly; we must make a flank movement."

J. WENMAN.
R.R. 4, Victoria, B.C., April 16, 1931.

SAANICH HIGH SCHOOL

Sir.—Today I received a long letter from Saanich recommending me to vote "Yes" on the above. In it it states that 300 pupils attending Victoria High School cost $120 per pupil, and if Saanich has a high school or schools for these pupils, the cost will be $115 for each pupil. The difference is 330 pupils at $5—$1,650. It further states that there will be no extra raise in the taxes, and that the cost of maintenance alone is $3,535, not including teachers' salaries. Put these at say $15,000, and the interest on the bonds at $3,500, then the three items above come to $22,000 a year, saying nothing of the annual sinking funds, electric light and fuel, etc. I think the full amount will easily reach $40,000 a year.

I am fully aware that Saanich will have to provide someday for these pupils, and am pleased to see the school trustees have come partly to my way of suggesting three schools. But from the inquiries I have made I feel that three junior high schools attached to the present buildings is the way to save money in more ways than one. I most certainly shall vote against the by-law until I can see some project put forward that will be a study of economy.

WALTER J. DANDRIDGE.

SPECIAL MUSIC TO BE GIVEN SUNDAY

Brahm's "Song of Destiny" and two Psalms, by Gustav Holst, will receive their first performance in Victoria on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Christ Church Cathedral. The cathedral choir and orchestra will be under the direction of Stanley Bulley, A.R.C.O., L.R.A.M., the cathedral organist.

The Holst work is written for choir, string orchestra and organ, and though an early work by this modern English composer its modern harmonic structure and contrapuntal freedom reveal the beauty of thought that is characteristic of this composer. Music lovers should not miss the opportunity of hearing a fine example of music of their own generation.

The "Song of Destiny" is possibly the best-loved work among choral bodies by this composer. Hoelderlin's poem contrasts the peaceful existence of celestial spirits with the turbulent existence of man. The dramatic intensity of the middle section is one of the most moving passages ever written.

Three unaccompanied motets by Anerio (1600), Goss (1800) and Stanford (1900) will be sung by the choir, which is distinguished for its fine cappella singing.

Mrs. Gladys Slark, who is well known to Victorians, will sing Elgar's "Sabbath Morning at Sea" and two of the lovely Bible songs by Dvorak.

The string orchestra, which has been working steadily with the choir since September last, will make its first appearance in a solo capacity. Bach's D Major Suite, with the famous Air as its second movement, and Mozart's suite of "Night Music" will provide a contrast to the choral works.

Admittance is free to enable everyone to have the opportunity of hearing the best music, but a generous collection is asked for from those who can best afford it in order that these recitals can be continued, as the expenses are necessarily heavy.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

(From The Daily British Colonist of April 17, 1881)

The catch of seals on the West Coast so far has been light. The animals are not only scarce but such a distance out to sea that it is difficult to get at them. Perhaps the latter part of the season may be more favorable. Last year by this time a large catch had been obtained. A similar report reaches us from Queen Charlotte Islands and the north end of the Island.

The extension of the telegraph line into Kamloops will be commenced immediately, according to Superintendent Gisborne, who returned from that place yesterday.

There has been a marked improvement in butchers' meats during the past few days. Beef is of better quality; Island lamb and veal are becoming more plentiful, and before long good mutton chops and roasts will again be obtainable.

Mr. Bull, collector of the municipal road tax, is now making his annual call. Early payment insures a vote at municipal elections. Mr. Bull will be in his office daily to receive payments.

CLEARS DOUBT AS TO DEATH

Twin Brother of Timothy Harrington Identifies Body After Many Months

Any doubt with respect to the death of Timothy Harrington, formerly of Work Point Barracks, has been cleared up. His twin brother, Denis T. O'Neill, superintendent of jails at San Francisco, who is now in the city, has had the body exhumed and positively identified it as that of his brother, Michael O'Neill, who went under the name of Timothy Harrington.

Under the latter name and also by the familiar one of "Big Tim," he had a host of friends about the city. During the war he went to Siberia with the Canadian force and shortly afterwards retired from the service after twenty years, living retired at the Beverley Apartments.

There is a tragedy connected with the death of this ex-member of the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps at Work Point. The change of name is explained by the fact that in his young days he had enlisted in the British navy. Later he deserted and came to Canada, assuming the name Timothy, which was the christened name of his father, and Harrington, which was his mother's name before marriage.

SUSPECTED FOUL PLAY

In December, 1929, he went to Vancouver on a visit, and before doing so drew some $200 from the bank. He also wore valuable diamonds. He was in the best of health, and standing over six feet in height, weighed about 215 pounds. His brother feared that there might have been foul play on account of the money he carried.

Search was prosecuted by his twin brother to solve the mystery of his brother's disappearance, with the result that he found that in Richmond, on the Mainland, the body of a man answering the description had been found in the Fraser River on February 4, 1930. No identification had been made and about a week later the body was buried in Vancouver.

About May, when the brother came from San Francisco, and, in company with Sergt.-Major E. Durling, R.C.O.C., went to Vancouver, the chief of police of Richmond and one of the officers identified a picture of the missing man as the one found in the river. They also remarked upon the striking resemblance between the two brothers. They dissuaded the brother from exhuming the body, fearing that in the time intervening identification by that method would be unlikely.

On the application of E. V. Finland, representing D. T. O'Neill, an order was made in the Supreme Court by Mr. Justice Murphy on February 23, 1931, presuming the death of the brother, so clear were the affidavits set out in connection with the matter. However, on Monday last, when the brother decided to have the body removed from its place among the unknown in the Vancouver cemetery and placed in the plot reserved for returned men, he had the casket opened and found the remains in such a state of preservation that he had no difficulty whatever in identifying, so that all doubt that could exist in his mind has been removed.

Remains of Belgian Priest Captured by Communists in China Discovered

By REGINALD SWEETLAND
(Copyright, 1931, by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service)

SHANGHAI, April 15.—The body of a Belgian priest, captured by Communists when they sacked a small Hupeh provincial town on April 4, was found today on the Yangtze River bank, according to reports received here from Hankow.

Daniel Nelson, brother of the Rev. Bert N. Nelson, missionary, of Minneapolis, arrived at Hankow from Peiping with 7,000 local dollars, and is proceeding to the bandit lair for the purpose of effecting the release of his brother and that of the Rev. Kristofer Tvedt, a Norwegian missionary.

PAY RANSOM MONEY

The Lutheran Mission headquarters at Hankow have admitted already that they had paid, without result, 10,000 local dollars to the bandits for the captives' freedom. They believe, that with the additional sum they can do what the Chinese Government is unwilling or unable to do.

Nanking's inaction in attempting to obtain the release of the foreigners, including the American, has stirred a wave of indignation among the foreign communities in Shanghai, many pointing to the Chinese Foreign Minister's insistent demands for immediate abolition of foreign safeguards throughout the country, while at the same time holding to the attitude that most foreigners get into trouble simply because they enjoy extraterritoriality status which removes them from the hands of Chinese justice.

It is pointed out that the territory in which the American missionary was captured since October 5 was never under extraterritoriality clauses.

W. I. Walker Not Guilty on Charge of Perjury

VANCOUVER, April 16 (CP).—Not guilty was the decision today of Judge J. N. Ellis following trial in County Court on Wednesday of William Izett Walker, fifty-three, merchant, and former elder of Central Presbyterian Church, on a charge of perjury arising out of his evidence at the Fleck divorce trial in November, 1928.

Testifying in his own behalf, Walker said he was certain he heard the voice of Rev. S. Robertson Orr in the church vestry on the night of April 8, 1927, and also the voice of a woman, whom he believed to be Mrs. Margaret W. Fleck.

PROPERTY WILL BE WORTH MORE

Passing of High School By-Law Will Increase Values, Saanich Residents Told

Property values in Saanich will increase with the passing of the $93,000 High School By-Law, Reeve William Crouch and Trustee F. V. Hobbs, chairman of the school board, told residents of the Gordon Head district at a meeting held in the Gordon Head Hall last night.

The project, which will be placed before the Saanich electorate on Saturday calling for the above sum, is for the building of three high schools in the municipality. The cost and maintenance of such schools will be only slightly more than the cost of one," said Reeve Crouch, "while such a scheme will mean fair play to all the residents of the widely-scattered districts. Not only is such a scheme satisfactory to the greater number, but in time it will decrease your school taxes," the chief magistrate concluded.

F. V. Hobbs, a veteran campaigner in the interest of educational measures in Saanich, urged upon his listeners the necessity of not only voting for the by-law, but of getting out and working for it.

Trustee Briggs spoke of the exorbitant cost of the present unsatisfactory arrangements, and stated that efficiency, economy and justice were being sacrificed. With the passing of the by-law, these three important elements toward educational costs would be eliminated.

Trustee Thorpe, a new member of the school board this year, spoke in favor of the measure, and urged ratepayers to turn out on Saturday and put it over.

A. G. Lambrick, a worker for the scheme, spoke a few words in favor of the project and suggested that the taxpayers get out and "put it over with a bang."

R. J. McMillan, chairman of the meeting, made a stirring appeal for the passing of the measure which, he said, would be the best thing for Saanich.

Related Experiences As Home Missionary

An address by Rev. Dr. John Pringle, of Sydney, N.S., on his experiences as a home missionary, was the leading feature at the Spring meeting of the United Church Social Union, which was entertained on Tuesday afternoon by Dr. and Mrs. C. T. Scott at the Metropolitan parsonage. Dr. Oliver Darwin, former superintendent of Methodist home missions, was introduced, and Dr. W. G. Wilson spoke of the preparations being made for the British Columbia Conference, which meets here on May 13. Rev. John Robson was chosen president, to succeed Rev. Hugh Nixon, and Rev. Bruce G. Gray was re-elected secretary.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., April 16 (AP).—Harry E. Rowbottom, former representative in Congress of the first Indiana district, was convicted in Federal Court last night of accepting bribes from persons who sought postoffice appointments.

The former congressman was sentenced immediately by Judge Charles E. Woodward to serve one year and one day in Leavenworth penitentiary and was fined $2,000. The sentence was imposed on the first count of the indictment.

Judge Woodward also imposed the same sentence on three other counts on which the jury voted to convict Rowbottom, but he held the sentences could be served concurrently.

SPRING FLOWER SHOW TO OPEN

New Agricultural Hall at Willows to Be Inaugurated This Afternoon

The fine new agricultural building at the Willows Fair Grounds is to pass into use today for the first time when the fifth annual Spring flower show of the Vancouver Island Horticultural Association is opened at 2:30 o'clock. The show will continue until Saturday night.

This is undoubtedly the finest ever staged by the society. Whoever devised the clever peep-show entitled "Miles of Flowers!" might have borrowed the name from the display itself, for the great amphitheatre of bloom from certain aspects seems like thousands and thousands of yards of gorgeous ribbon worked up into rosettes and 'broidered designs which fill the corners and borders and central field with the most brilliant color. Daffodils and tulips, anemones and narcissi, primulas and wallflowers, violas, hyacinths, pansies, bright flowering shrubs, potted plants, make up the gay procession, which it will take visitors an entire afternoon or evening to explore.

The new hall is ideal for the purpose, for, in addition to the great floor space, the lighting is magnificent. An invitation was sent yesterday to Sir Arthur and Lady Currie to officiate at the opening, and the committee is confidently looking forward to evidence of keen interest on the part of the public.

THE ARRANGEMENT

The arrangement of the displays is very attractive. This year there will be seven society displays, which is three more than last year; and an exceptionally large number of fine trade displays have helped to fill up some of the larger available spaces.

Among the society displays are the three in class 1, General district display: Cowichan, North Saanich and Victoria; two in class 2 (landscape), North Saanich and Victoria; and two in class 3 (Women's Institute), Victoria and Royal Oak. The trade displays are from the Rockstone Gardens, which occupies the central south wall; A. J. Woodward's, which is showing specimen blooms in a space at the right-hand side of the entrance; Woolridge's, which has a bank of fine daffodils at the corresponding point at the left of the entrance, while J. C. Bennett shows some rare plants in an interesting collection against the central north wall. The Layrits Nurseries occupy a shrubbery in the middle of the floor; and the north and south corners at the east end of the hall are occupied respectively by W. Jennings (with cut flowers and potted plants of every description), and R. M. Palmer, who shows his usual genius for making an attractive display. The hydrangea display near the entrance has been staged by Ballantyne's.

FIVE HUNDRED ENTRIES

In the competitive classes over five hundred entries have been put in, which is a source of special satisfaction to the committee in view of the absence of any prize money this year. The school children have come in well in the class for display of narcissi arranged by the children themselves. Little groups of intensely interested boys and girls were busy at the hall all day yesterday putting up the exhibits for the Oak Bay, Willows, Saanichton and Sidney schools. There are six collections of wild flowers this year, offering the amateur botanist an opportunity to make up his April floral calendar.

In addition to the competitive, trade and school displays above mentioned there are three or four other notably fine collections on view, notably the cineraria exhibits sent in by F. B. Pemberton and Government House. The British Columbia Tulip Association is demonstrating what it can do with a very beautiful display of tulips, and W. F. Salisbury has a hothouse plant display immediately inside the main entrance.

Daffodils, tulips, hyacinths, wallflowers and polyanthus, in this order, vie for popularity, and everywhere one meets these blooms in the various collections. But room has been found for all the traditional etceteras of the Spring flower show, including the decorated tables, which will be found near the east end of the hall; a table display of bird houses made by boys; a display of miniature gardens after the Japanese style; the Scout and Guide section; the Victoria Women's Institute display of British Columbia handicrafts; and an exhibition of baskets made by the workers in the British Columbia Institute for the Blind.

UP IN THE AIR

The newest, smartest shade of hose is almost mysterious, because it looks quite dark in the hand, but when you get it on, it's a sort of misty, soft neutral shade that you can wear with every color frock for every occasion. The color is called vapor, and if you get it in chiffon you'll feel exquisitely stocking-ed, even though you only pay $1 a pair. And while you're in a stocking mood, you're sure to want to choose a few pair in big openwork mesh, for your tailored daytime clothes, in a dantier mesh for evening.

A colored preacher was trying to explain the fury of hell to his congregation.

"You all is seen molten iron runnin' out from a furnace, ain't you?" he asked.

The congregation said it had.

"Well," the preacher continued, "dey use dat stuff fo' ice cream in de place I'm talkin' 'bout."

TAKE A GOOD LOOK

See all the lingerie that the shops are showing, and then pick yours out in colors and styles that will blend with your lovely new frocks. Pistachio green, lemon yellow, watermelon pink, and sapphire blue are some of the new shades that have decided not to be pastel, but to get a little bolder about themselves. And you're sure to fall in love with the flowered chiffon lingeries that every debutante treasures. Maybe you haven't been told—even best friends like to keep economy secrets to themselves—but these wispy chiffon things can be had for as little as $1.95 even though they look like $10.

Just Roamin' Around

BY TWO ROVERS

The greeting between Mr. Alotta Touristz and Miss Victoria, whom he had come so far to woo, was not as warmly affectionate as it should have been, rather more formal than cordial, owing to the presence of the young damsel's chaperon, Aunty Grundy-Bluelaws, whose acid countenance frownfully chilled the ardor of our gay Lothario and also had a dampening effect on her pretty niece.

"Aunty," a Grundy on her mother's side, "The Grundies of Grumphy villa, you know," firstly inspected the young man's credentials, and "cattychized" him on his views on Sunday observance, the liquor question and on the "sin of all amusements," which latter she lumped together, in her little mind, as "harmful."

Being prepared to put up with the annoyance of having a stranger in her domain at all, she thawed out enough to take our young suitor on a tour of the house, proudly pointing out its great collection of antiques, in which, however, she omitted to include herself. Chaperons, now, are the antiquest of antiques.

The land from which Mr. Alotta hailed, apparently, had many antiques, too, for he looked very bored, and acted as if he would much rather be left alone with Miss Victoria, to enjoy himself in his own way; in some way at least.

Antemacassars, cross-stitch mottoes, candelabra, pewter pots and portraits of ancestors were all trotted out to impress the youth, who was aching to have a really good time and a chance to talk to the niece.

As he expressed himself later, "I had to view a lot of stuff I could see just as well at home. There was nothing amusing in the whole collection but the old showwoman herself.

"The quiet and repose appealed to me at first; the atmosphere of correctness coincided with an inherent love of 'the right thing'; the service and dinner were super-elegant and genteel; but who wants that on a holiday and an adventuresome trip to a land o' dreams?

"No amusement or interesting entertainment followed the stiff and old-fashioned dinner, no novel innovations, no music (they are too slow or too stingy to provide an orchestra for their guests' enjoyment), no theatricals in their ever-dark 'operaless house,' unless a band of strolling players occasion that way.

"It was correct dreariness, perfectly polite sameness and quite impossible unchangeability, which, though hospitable, is nevertheless unbearably dull.

"I sensed that the fences and the gates might be mended and painted—in time; the ragged patchwork of perfumed plots might, some day, be extended to cover the whole superb garden site; the ultra respectability and dreary stagnation give place to entertaining, amusing recreation, in the distant future; but, I am too young to await the awakening of Miss Victoria's heart to the value of her resistless charms. Some day she may get rid of her antique Aunty Grundy-Bluelaws, and her waste patches of weed-promoting vacant spaces, but she must paint-up, clean-up and polish-up her general appearance, grow up with the times, with merry, tolerant sympathy for those who come to her for amusement, recreation and whole-hearted enjoyment, and then only can she win the heart of the world, and especially Alberta Touristz.

"So I returned to my own home; and, when next I go a-wooing, I shall seek a more up-to-date siren to sooth me and lure me to my land o' dreams."

I woke up to learn that Miss Victoria has come out of her old conventional coyness. The Junior Chamber of Commerce, than which there is no more alive institution in the city, young men, who will be the leading citizens of the community, are staging a Clean-up Week, April 20 to April 25 they ask all good Victorians to help them give the city a brighter and cleaner appearance, to make it a greater attraction to the tourists of 1931, to clean-up and paint-up before Alotta Touritz arrives this year, to woo Miss Victoria, the beautiful.

Daughters of Empire Review Year's Work At Annual Sessions

Representatives of Order in British Columbia Assemble at Vancouver for Eighteenth Annual Meeting—Mrs. Curtis Sampson Presides

VANCOUVER, April 16.—Victoria was chosen as the headquarters of the Provincial Chapter, I.O.D.E., for the coming year at the eighteenth annual meeting here today, with the president, Mrs. Curtis Sampson, of Victoria, in the chair.

Following the morning session, luncheon was served in the oval room for members of the provincial and local executives, when the head table was attractively decorated with a variety of daffodils, tulips and narcissi. A specially invited guest was Mrs. E. L. Crawford, from the Peace River.

Mrs. F. W. Welsh read the report from the Municipal Chapter, stating that much relief work had been done during the past year and that one of the members had established a soup kitchen in the basement of her home. Visits to the Shaughnessy Military Hospital and the Vancouver General Hospital were made regularly. The report of the Victoria Municipal Chapter was read by Mrs. A. E. Hopkins, who said that sixteen chapters were under Municipal jurisdiction. During the year gifts were sent to orphaned children, isolated schools and to the hospital at Pender Harbor.

YEAR'S ACTIVITIES

Four primary chapters were organized at Chilliwack, according to the report given by Mrs. Carl Grossman. Child welfare and social welfare work comprised the activities of the chapters which also sponsored the sale of poppies throughout the valley for Poppy Day. The upkeep of a cot at the Queen Alexandra Solarium is part of the work being done by Burnaby members, stated Mrs. W. N. Martin in her report from the Burnaby Municipal Chapter. Books were sent to isolated schools and the Canadian Geographical Journal placed in thirteen schools.

The annual reports were then heard, and Mrs. J. Gordon Smith, of Victoria, who gave that of the executive, stated that there had been a marked expansion and growth of activities during the past year. In the interests of the Junior Red Cross committee of the National Committee of Education, the combined chapters of the I.O.D.E. gave unstinted aid upon receiving calls for help from the residents of the Peace River district.

OFFICERS' REPORTS

Receipts for the year 1930-31 amounted to $5,238 and the disbursements $5,402, according to the report of the treasurer and auditor, Miss I Terry. In her report, Mrs. J. H. Raley, organizing secretary, stated that the junior chapter, Princess Margaret Rose, of North Vancouver, had received its charter, and a primary chapter had been organized at Shawnigan Lake. The total subscriptions to The Echoes Magazine amounted to 928, while six chapters had a 100 per cent subscription list, according to Mrs. J. C. Irons, who read the report of the Echoes' secretary.

WELFARE WORK

Mrs. John McKee gave an interesting report on the work being accomplished in India, and an I.O.D.E. badge, made by the women in Poona, was displayed. The child welfare committee, which provides for the undernurished children, was reported by Mrs. H. Hawkshaw, who said that throughout the year needy families were cared for, clinics held, and at Christmas there was the Christmas seal drive. The report of the National Council of Education, read by Mrs. Sampson, told that the aim of the council is to provide instructive lectures for the public.

The report of the Prince Rupert Municipal Chapter was read by Mrs. Gordon Smith, who spoke of prizes and educational literature being contributed to schools in the region. Interesting was the fact disclosed that it is the only chapter in Canada which owns its own hall.

PRESIDENTIAL ADDRESS

"This has been rather a difficult year, owing to trade and other depressions, but I feel that these difficulties have been successfully overcome by the industry and enthusiasm of the members, and the ingenuity and resourcefulness displayed in their various methods of raising the necessary funds to continue their splendid work." This was Mrs. Curtis Sampson's opening sentence in her presidential address.

ACHIEVEMENTS OF WOMEN

Mention was made of the wonderful achievements of women during 1930: Amy Johnson's flight to Australia, Marjorie Foster's winning of the King's Prize, Winifred Brown's air race for the King's Cup, Mrs. Victor Bruce's great flight, and the Begum Shah Nawal speaking for India's women at the India Conference. Mrs. Sampson also mentioned Nurse Bennett, who gave her life to attend soldiers suffering from cerebro-spinal meningitis. The visit of the Prince of Wales to South America and the great Empire trade fair there, were also mentioned in her address.

INDIAN REGENT'S DEATH

"From India came the sad news of the passing of Miss Susie Sorabji, regent of the Kaiser-I-Hind Chapter, who had worked so many years at Poona," remarked Mrs. Sampson, who spoke of Miss Sorabji's nobility of character and courage in standing up for British ideals. Child welfare had always drawn a ready response from the membership, and Mrs. Sampson urged more attention for the Preventorium. She spoke of the Queen Alexandra Solarium at Malahat Beach, to which the I.O.D.E. in British Columbia contributed $744 last year, and appealed for more help now that the new Shrine unit would soon be occupied.

New Fashion Ideas for This Season's Bride

BROUSSELIER, of Paris, creates interesting nuptial coiffure. (1) One of the attractive new frocks by Blanch Lebouvier, Paris, which would make a charming bridesmaid's dress. It is of rose mousseline with matching muff and wide-brimmed hat trimmed with flowers. Note the long lace mitts. (2) Brousselier's new wedding coiffure with orange blossom trimming. (3) A cool going-away ensemble for the Summer bride. It is of natural colored pongee, smartly tailored according to the design of Rene Hubert. The jacket shows a bloused belted waistline and the skirt fits snugly to the knees with flounce fullness. There is a crepe de Chine blouse of the same light tan shade. A new note is seen in the upstanding collar straw braid which is matched with a close straw wrap-around turban. Two bright red buttons appear on the hat and also at the neckline of the blouse and cuffs.

Pays $29,175 to Shine Shoes on N.Y. Ferry Boats

NEW YORK, April 16 (AP).—Tony Andriola paid $29,975, yesterday, for the privilege of shining shoes on the Staten Island ferries for two years. Tony himself doesn't wield the brushes and flannel rags; he hires others for that.

He paid $2,000 additional for the bootblack concession on the Hamilton Avenue ferries.

The bootblack business is booming, apparently, for the shine concessions brought just about as much as they did in 1929.

Mrs. Kate Ward Dies in Vancouver

VANCOUVER, April 16.—Another link in the pioneer chain connecting British Columbia with her past, was severed on Wednesday night when death came to Mrs. Kate Ward, aged seventy-seven, at her home, East Pender Street, following a lingering illness.

Mrs. Ward arrived in Victoria fifty-six years ago from her home in Arundel, Sussex. The journey, which occupied six months, was made in the ship Oceanic, via Cape Horn. Nineteen years ago she came to Vancouver and had resided here ever since. She was born in Amberley, Sussex.

Shortly after her arrival in Victoria she married Louis de Wilton, of James Bay, who died within a few years. Later she married the late M. A. Ward, who for eighteen years was proprietor of the Arlington Hotel, Alberni. He died in 1916.

She is survived by two sons, George and Frederick Ward, of Vancouver, and a daughter, Mrs. Ernest Reeve, wife of the Government telegraph agent at Squamish.

Funeral services will be held on Friday at 3 o'clock. Interment will take place in Mountain View Cemetery.

Native Daughters Install Officers

At the regular monthly meeting of the Native Daughters of Nanaimo held in the Odd Fellows' Hall, the following officers were installed for the ensuing term: P.C.F., Sister Crossan; C.F., Sister H. Goodall; V.C.F., Sister Hollingsworth; chaplain, Sister Bertram; recording secretary, Sister Busby; financial secretary, Sister E. Bennett; treasurer, Sister Marwick; historian, Sister Planta; guide, Sister Cain; inner sentinel, Sister I. McRae; auditor, Sister McGregor.

During the evening a beautiful corsage of red roses was presented to Mrs. Cameron in recognition of her untiring services. She was also made a life member of the lodge. Mrs. Cameron was the organizer of the Native Daughters in Nanaimo.

The past chief's pin was presented to Mrs. Sampson and an engraved silver vase was presented to Mrs. J. Crossan, the retiring chief factor.

A discussion was brought up at the meeting with reference to legislation passed at the last session of the House, which makes it unlawful to uproot or pick the blossoms of the dogwood tree. The dogwood is the national emblem of Vancouver Island, and citizens should refrain from demolishing the trees and blossoms.

NEW WESTMINSTER, April 16.—Mrs. Susan Cowper, widow of the late Captain Jesse Cowper, Victoria, will be the honored lady at the forthcoming diamond jubilee of the New Westminster May Day celebration, to be staged on May 15 at the famous Queen's Park oval.

Mrs. Cowper was formerly Miss Susan Burr, of Ladner, and was maid of honor to the late Mrs. E. S. Scoular at the first May Day celebration in the Royal City back in 1870.

Elaborate plans are being made for the big event and upwards of fifty ex-May queens are expected to be guests of the committee and the Native Daughters of British Columbia. The Dufferin coach, used by the Governor-General of Canada back in 1887, will be used as the conveyance for the 1931 May queen, who is to be elected by popular ballot among the school children of New Westminster this week.

Pneumonia Left Her With a Terrible Cough

Mrs. A. W. Power, 581 Jane St., Toronto, Ont., writes:—"Eight years ago I had a very serious illness. I had a bad attack of pleurisy and pneumonia and was six months in bed. This illness left me with a terrible cough. I tried several cough medicines, but they did not seem to have any effect. One day my mother brought me home a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and after I had taken several more I noticed my cough gradually leaving me. Since that time if ever my husband and children or myself have bad colds I always get 'Dr. Wood's.'" Price 35c. a bottle; large family size 65c.; at all druggists or dealers.

Holding Bridge To Give Tired Mothers Holiday

The time is rapidly approaching when the gates of Sunshine Camp will be opened once again to admit tired mothers and their little families for the much-needed Summer holiday. The Junior Catholic Women's League is among the organizations which consistently support this undertaking, and on Thursday, April 30, will hold a bridge and five hundred party in the Amphion Hall, commencing at 8 o'clock, in aid of their fund for the furnishing of one of the huts which they partially furnished last year.

An indication of the usefulness of their work last year is shown in the statement that during the holidays they supported ten mothers and forty children at the camp, and this year they hope to be able to do as well or better in addition to purchasing the mattresses and bedding for the cots in the hut which they undertook to equip.

The forthcoming bridge is being convened by Miss Margaret O'Neill and Miss Eileen Macpherson, and arrangements are being made to serve refreshments. Miss Eulalie O'Neill is president of the junior league, and the secretary is Miss Helen Redgrave.

Helen Twelvetrees Admits Marriage

HOLLYWOOD, April 16 (AP).—Helen Twelvetrees, film actress, gave away a secret she intended to keep "for a while" yesterday by wearing a brand new wedding ring to work at her studio.

Blushingly she admitted to questioners, who spied the ring, that she and Frank Woody, Hollywood real estate broker, were married "about three weeks ago in Reno, Nevada, by a justice of the peace."

A burglar who recently broke into the exclusive Coronation Club at Kingston, England, signed his name on the visitor's book as Bill Sikes.

Tea grown in the Netherland East Indies this year will weigh nearly 80,000 tons.

The next game will be under the auspices of the Community Centre, next Monday evening.

CHEMAINUS

The Oyster Women's Institute held its monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Rayer on Tuesday afternoon. After some discussion, it was decided to hold a whist drive about May 1. The children's poultry club has unfortunately proved a failure, as, after having procured eggs from the Sidney Experimental Farm, it was found that no broody hens were available for the use of the children. At the meeting, seeds were distributed amongst the mothers, for their children to grow, the institute planning to hold a flower show for them later on, the prizes being donated by the Government. The idea of a community hall was discussed, and the offer of a lot, next the schoolhouse, which had been made by Mr. Thicke, was accepted. The following members were present at the meeting: Mrs. Rayer, Mrs. Rouleau, Mrs. Troop, Mrs. Brawn, Mrs. F. Reed, Mrs. Southin, Mrs. Wood, Mrs. Rumble and Mrs. Thicke.

ESQUIMALT

The regular meeting of Esquimalt Women's Institute was held on Tuesday evening in the Parish Hall, with Mrs. Cave, president, in the chair. Eighteen members were present. Before opening the meeting, the members gave a standing vote of sympathy to Mrs. Pauline and Mrs. Gray on the loss of husband and mother, respectively. Floral tributes had already been sent. Amongst correspondence received was a donation of $10 from the Pantorium Dye Works. Arrangements were made for Miss Ashdown to attend the next meeting and give an address on "Safe Investments." This address will be open to the public at 8:30 o'clock. Mrs. Saddler, convener of home industries, also arranged for members to visit the Red Cross Work Shop on April 23. Any members wishing to inspect this centre will meet outside the Red Cross Shop at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Brooker reported on the very successful birthday anniversary tea held on March 17, which was due to the splendid work of the committee in charge, which was accorded hearty thanks. After some discussion it was decided to hold a garden party in June at the residence of Mrs. Booth, Esquimalt Road. The general convener will be Mrs. Brooker. Other conveners appointed were: Home cooking, Mrs. Kelly; ice cream, Mrs. Kennedy; candy, Mrs. J. Roger and Mrs. Bradley; garden stall, Mrs. Johnston; bran tub, Mrs. Mead; sewing stall, Mrs. G. Pocock; teas, Mesdames McLean, Douglas and Stewart; peep into the future, Mrs. Mossop; gate, Mrs. Holligan. Final plans are well under way for the exhibition to be held on August 12, with the following members in charge of arrangements: General convener, Mrs. Cave; needlework, Mrs. Holligan and Mrs. J. Roger; vegetables, Mrs. Wise; home cooking, Mrs. Mead; home canning and preserves, Mrs. Kennedy; fresh fruits, Mrs. Bradley; cut flowers, Mrs. Pocock; arts and crafts, Mrs. Saddler; health exhibits, Mrs. Booth. A new member, Mrs. Salisbury, was proposed by Mrs. Kelly and seconded by Mrs. Saddler. Hostesses for the social hour that followed the business meeting were Mesdames Hicks, Wise, Kelly and Isbister.

Sapphire Blue Chosen for Gown Of English Bride

Blue will be the prevailing shade at the wedding on April 18, at Beaulieu Abbey, Hants, of Miss Pamela Bowes-Lyon and the Duke of Hamilton's third son, Lord Malcolm Douglas-Hamilton, a flying officer, says The News-Chronicle.

The bride herself will wear the bridal white, but her bridesmaids are to be in a delicate shade of sapphire blue—Miss Bowes-Lyon's favorite color.

Sapphires are her favorite gem. She has a sapphire engagement ring.

An extremely attractive girl with deep blue eyes and fair, curly hair, Miss Pamela Bowes-Lyon is a first cousin of the Duchess of York.

FINDS VICTORIA VERY CHARMING

Bert Lytell, Well-Known Actor, Is Spending Short Holiday in the City

"More like England than Canada. Every house has its own garden, every house seems to be some man's quiet retreat. It is all very charming, quaint, peaceful and quiet, an ideal place to come to for a rest."

This expresses the measure of appreciation which Mr. and Mrs. Bert Lytell, well-known New York visitors, now in the city, feel for Victoria, after what they declare to have been a most delightful three days' stay as guests at the Empress Hotel.

"We are leaving quite regretfully, but hope to come back again some time," Mr. Lytell said yesterday.

Mr. Lytell is familiar to hundreds of Victorians as a star of the screen, and in New York, where he returned to the legitimate stage four years ago, he is popular with tens of thousands of theatre patrons. He has been on tour recently, and slipped his Victoria holiday in between Portland and Seattle appearances. The legitimate stage season will shortly draw to a close, but he already has engaged to appear in a new play in New York next season, and between now and then will be engaged in the production of a "talkie" at Hollywood.

The theatre is not a new career in the present generation of the Lytell family, as no less than four generations have followed the stage as a profession. It is of interest, too, to learn that Mr. Bert Lytell is the first of the family born on American soil, but even he was educated in this country, his father, who was a Canadian, insisting on his being sent to Upper Canada College for his early schooling.

NEW FIRM OPENING FOR BUSINESS TODAY

Under the name of Messrs. Oliver, Stewart Clark & Co., Ltd., S. M. Oliver and Stewart G. Clark have joined forces to form a new business as bond, real estate and insurance agents and brokers, taking over the concern formerly operating under the name of J. A. Walker & Co., Ltd., late of 1105 Government Street, together with agencies and staff of that firm, and will open offices at 640 Fort Street, Winch Building. Business hitherto conducted by J. A. Walker & Co., Ltd., will be carried on without interruption, commencing today.

Mr. Oliver's connection with the investment business extends through many years, and through former appointments he has had unusual opportunity to study conditions as they affect this country. He was associated with the London Stock Exchange from 1904 until 1912, when he came to this country to take the post of C.N.R. land surveyor on Vancouver Island. This position he left to go overseas with the 7th Battalion at the outbreak of war, and he served until 1919. On his return he was appointed to the special income tax audit bureau of the Provincial Government, later accepting the position of credit manager for the Hudson's Bay Company from 1921 until 1926. Since that time he has resumed his connections with the stock and bond business. In the new firm he will control the bond and investment department.

Stewart G. Clark, who will manage the real estate, insurance and mortgage departments, arrived in Victoria from the Orient twenty-two years ago, and has been associated with the real estate and insurance business in Victoria ever since. He was elected president of the Real Estate Board of this city for the years 1929 and 1930, and served as president of the Victoria and District Fire Insurance Agents' Association for 1930 and in the present year. The new business is capitalised to the extent of $24,000.

Better methods of culture last year gave Hawaii a pineapple crop which was 37 per cent greater than that of 1929.

BIRMINGHAM TO MEET WEST BROMWICH FOR CUP

Varsity Cagers Take Fifteen Point Lead in Western Canada Play-Offs

Mainlanders Score 29 to 14 Win Over Winnipeg Quintette

Skipper Arnold Henderson Guides U.B.C. Lads to One-Sided Verdict Over Toilers—Victory Paves Way to Canadian Final Against Eastern Titleholders

Second Fixture Carded Tomorrow

VANCOUVER, April 16.—University of British Columbia, playing inspired basketball in which they were converting every opportunity, piled up a fifteen-point lead in the first game of the Western Canada senior finals here tonight, defeating Winnipeg Toilers, 29-14.

Varsity just could not miss the hoops, and its tight zone defence system had the Toilers puzzled all the way.

The Toilers, twice Dominion champions and four times finalists, weren't clicking. Their shots would roll in and around the hoop and bounce out again. They battled gamely all the way, but were up against a team playing the best basketball seen in Vancouver all season.

Bob Osborne, black-haired Varsity guard, was the star of the game, ably aided by blond Pi Campbell and diminutive Cy Lee.

Youthful Joe Dodds was the pick of the Toilers offence, but Captain Silverthorne played a sterling defence game. It wasn't his fault that the boys couldn't score, when he sent them away time after time, after breaking up a Varsity sortie.

The teams play again Saturday night here, with total points to count.

THE LINE-UPS

Toilers—Silverthorne, Thorogood, Wooley, Dodds (7) and Wilson. Subs.: Phillips (5), Shea (1), Brown (1).

Varsity—Henderson, Osborne (9), Lee (2), Campbell (8), Nicholson (4). Subs.: Alpen (4), Chapman (2), Tervo.

THREE BOUTS ON MAT BILL

Two Middleweight Bouts and Heavyweight Go Carded for Tomorrow

"ROCKY" BROOKS WILL MEET VANCOUVER MAN

One of the best wrestling "exhibition" cards given here in weeks, with experienced matmen taking part, will take place tomorrow night at the Tillicum Club gymnasium. Three bouts are billed for the fans, including two main events and a semi-windup.

The first of the main events will bring together Des Anderson, Seattle, and Ray Lynes, Portland, battling it out for eight ten-minute rounds. In the second senior event, Ernie Arthur, of Victoria, will tackle Jack McLaughlin, of Vancouver. "Rocky" Brooks, of this city, will grapple with Jean O'Connor, Vancouver, in the preliminary bout. The first event will start at 8:30 o'clock.

Probably the feature mix-up of the evening will be between Arthur and McLaughlin. Arthur, who has shown here before, has proven himself a true exponent of the "grunt and grapple" game, and McLaughlin has the reputation of being one of the best men on the Coast for his class.

The go between Anderson and Lynes also promises plenty of action. Des Anderson is well known to local fans, while Lynes is practically a newcomer to the Tillicum mat.

The Brooks-O'Connor bout is slightly in Brooks' favor, owing to the fact that he defeated O'Connor here some time ago. The Victorian heavyweight will, however, have his hands full with the Vancouver fireman, and it will no doubt prove a tough struggle.

VICTORIA HIGH WINS FOOTBALL

Score 2-1 Victory Over Oak Bay in First Island Championship Game

Victoria High School scored its initial victory in the first of a three-game series for the Vancouver Island soccer championship with Oak Bay High School, yesterday afternoon at the Oak Bay grounds, by a 2-1 count.

Play was even throughout, although the Victoria boys seemed to show a slightly superior knowledge of the game. Both counters for the city eleven came in the first half, from Art Chapman and Joe Addison.

In the first half play see-sawed up and down the field, with both goalies being called upon several times to relieve dangerous situations. About the middle of the opening stanza, after the Victoria High forwards had performed some pretty combination work to take the ball into their opponents' territory, Art Chapman, with a beautiful kick, sent the leather into the Oak Bay net. The Oak Bay goalie had little chance to save the ball, it being practically out of his reach.

Undaunted by this, the Oak Bay squad continued to press hard and two or three times nearly registered goals against the city boys. The Victorians, however, withstood the onslaught and forced their opponents back in the dying moments of the first half, when Joe Addison secured the ball and drove it past the Oak Bay goalie for the second point of the game. The half whistle came with Victoria still holding their lead.

OAK BAY SCORES

In the second half the Oak Bay eleven were much refreshed after their rest and started into the game furiously. Again the Victoria High backs came to the rescue and held the losers scoreless. Shortly after the opening whistle, however, Ellis, Oak Bay forward, kicked the ball for the net, and Bill Harris, Vic High back, intending to trap the ball, sent it skimming into his own goal to give Oak Bay their only count. The remainder of the game remained about even, with Victoria High playing a defensive game against the attacking suburbanites.

Wally Brynjolfson refereed and the teams were:

Oak Bay High—Stevens, Ellis, Melville, Hilton, Carmichael, Stewart, McConnan, Laver, Williams, Redmayne, Bankes.

Victoria High—Ferguson, Stipe, L. Patrick, M. Patrick, Scott, Moore, Harris, Chapman, Thorpe, Addison.

Balmy Beach Team Will Tour Canada Early in Autumn

TORONTO, April 16.—Arrangements are now being made for a tour by the Balmy Beach football team, Dominion champions, of Western Canada this Autumn, prior to the opening of the football season in the West. Beaches expect to play at Winnipeg, Regina, Saskatoon, Calgary, Edmonton and Vancouver.

SEVEN WITHDRAWN FROM BIG DERBY

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 16.—With the Kentucky Derby exactly a month away, seven of the 130 eligibles have been declared out of the race for various reasons.

Back Log and Oswego, prominent nominees, owned by Gallaher and Combs, and Aerial Prince, A. L. Ferguson's eligible, contracted ailments at Lexington and were withdrawn from training. Lord Swift, an imported nonstarter, has not developed fast enough, and C. B. Shaffer has decided to save him for the Arlington classic and American Derby later in the year. Others which have been withdrawn are Herbert M. Woolf's Porternesia, E. B. McLean's Skiffy and James C. Ellis' Leros.

Honors for the fastest mile workout to date are held jointly by Sweep All, owned by Charles T. Fisher, and Joey Bibb, C. C. Van Meter's candidate. Both have breezed the distance in 1:42 3-5 at Lexington.

Kentucky racing will begin at Lexington Saturday, with prospects that no Derby eligibles will start in the opening day feature, the Ben All Handicap. The race is over the futurity course.

Cayuga, T. E. Mueller's six-year-old, has been assigned top weight for the Ben All, 116 pounds, with C. V. Whitney's Angry and Herbert M. Woolf's Lady Broadcast next, with 115 each. R. W. Collins' Don Leon, if he starts, will have top weight among the Derby eligibles, with 110. Spanish Play, which won the Louisiana Derby for C. H. Knebelkamp, was assigned 108. It is highly improbable these prominent Kentucky Derby nominees will face the barrier.

All-Star Rugby Fifteen Will Tour Japan Next Year

WORD was received here yesterday by H. J. Ketchin, local Rugby official, from R. J. Woodward, secretary of the Dominion Football-Rugby Association, that an all-star fifteen flying the colors of the Maple Leaf will tour Japan in January, 1932. Japanese authorities have asked that the Dominion squad play a series of six games. Preparations for the proposed tour will be made later at a meeting of Rugby officials. Ketchin stated that owing to the time of the year, the majority of the players will be selected from British Columbia squads, which means that many star Victoria players will have an opportunity of gaining places on the team.

EXPLANATION FOR SUNDAY'S RIPLEY CARTOON

The Largest Grapevine—The Big Grapevine, of Mission variety, grew in Montecito, California, on land formerly owned by Dr. A. B. Doremus, of Santa Barbara. The vine was planted in 1827 by Dona Maria Marcelina de Dominquez to observe the birth of her first born. The stem, or trunk, of the vine was eighteen inches in diameter and fifty-six inches in circumference, and under its branches the Spanish people of this section used to hold their festivities. At one time the vine produced 7,500 clusters of grapes yearly, a total of 12,000 pounds. The above is verified by the Santa Barbara (California) Chamber of Commerce.

Professional Lacrosse League to Operate in Northwest This Year

Vancouver, Seattle and New Westminster to Hold Franchises in Loop—Would Advocate New and Speedier Style of Game

(Special to The Colonist. Copyright, 1931)

NEW WESTMINSTER, April 17.—Professional lacrosse is rearing its head again after an absence of six or seven years and plans are maturing for the establishment of a league which would embrace Vancouver, Seattle and New Westminster.

Those back of the move indicate that lacrosse will be in abbreviated form, each team using eight men on the field at one time. The playing space will be shortened and boxed in with lumber and wire netting, thus keeping the ball in actual play for a straight fifteen minutes, the length of the quarters. This is the style of play being followed in Australia, where it is said to be ousting cricket and English Rugby in popularity and from the box-office point of view.

According to Lester Patrick, manager of New York Rangers hockey team, sporting magnates in Gotham are casting their eyes towards professional lacrosse of the type suggested on the Coast, and negotiations are already under way to secure one or more of the big league parks in New York, where new lighting inventions will allow for night games to be played.

Cliff "Doughy" Spring, star home player with the now famous Salmonbellies, along with Jimmy Gunn, Ray and Stan Carter, and a few more whose efforts to get back into Simon-pure company a few years back were frustrated by the amateur union officials, are available for the Vancouver, while Thure Storme has received an offer to take over the Seattle franchise.

MINTO CUP

In the meantime the battered old Minto Cup has been brought from its hiding place and will probably be the trophy at stake in event of the pro league taking real form. C. A. Welsh, with Joe Lally, of Cornwall, are the two remaining trustees of the Minto Cup, and Welsh has already indicated his willingness to allow the cup to be competed for.

In the meantime, the New Westminster amateurs, who made an unsuccessful attempt to wrest the Mann Cup from Brampton Excelsiors, have organized with "Grumpy" Spring again at the helm as manager. This year the Easterners are due to travel to the Coast, and with the Queen's Park stadium leveled and sodded, the chances indicate New Westminster as being the venue of the three-game series.

An extra effort will be made by the New Westminster team this season in view of the possibility of the Mann Cup winners being sent to Los Angeles for the 1932 Olympic Games. The club cannot be denied the desire to travel. In 1928 the boys traveled to the Olympiad at Amsterdam, where they tied the series with John Hopkins University. Last year the scene was changed to Toronto, where three games were necessary before the Coasters would admit defeat. This year it may be different.

FINAL OF DAVIE CUP IS BILLED

Y.M.C.A. Soccer Eleven to Meet Cumberland at Nanaimo Tomorrow for Island Title

Victoria's Y.M.C.A.'s football eleven will journey Up-Island to Nanaimo tomorrow, where they will meet the Cumberland team in the final of the Davie Cup, emblematic of the Island championship.

The "Y" boys won this honor last Saturday when they scored a 1-0 victory over the Nanaimo Park Rangers at the Royal Athletic Park. The locals deserved full credit for their win, and are expected to give a good showing on the Up-Island field.

The odds for tomorrow's game are about even, and the fans predict a hard battle to the finish after the manner in which the Victorians battled against Nanaimo, who were rated as a strong aggregation and likely winners of the championship.

Both cities will field their strongest elevens. "Red" Martin, elongated goalkeeper for the locals, will be seen in action tomorrow, supported by Thomas and Brown at fullback. McKenzie, Owen and McKinnon will perform at halfback, and the forward line will consist of Woodley, Bailey, Dixon, Hill and Gelling.

A large crowd of Victoria supporters is expected to make the Up-Island trip with the team and to help them on to their hoped-for victory.

Kingston Street Courts Will Be Open Tomorrow

PROVIDING that the weatherman behaves as he is expected at this time of the year, officials of the Kingston Street Tennis Club announced yesterday that the courts would be thrown open to the members for the 1931 season tomorrow afternoon. The various courts are in excellent condition. Visitors and nonmembers are cordially invited to attend the opening.

CAGE SQUADS TO TERMINATE YEAR

Mayor Anscomb and Reeve Elrick to Officiate at Basketball Dance Tomorrow at J.B.A.A.

With Mayor Herbert Anscomb and Reeve James Elrick, of Esquimalt, officiating, the grand finale of the Victoria and District Basketball League will be held tomorrow evening at J.B.A.A. headquarters at the Gorge, in the form of a dance and social and presentations of trophies to the skippers of the various winning squads during the 1930-31 season.

The dance committee of the oarsmen's club have been busy during the past week making arrangements for the dance and social, while cage officials have been working untiringly to make the affair successful from every angle.

OLD COUNTRY RUGBY

LONDON, April 16 (CP).—In Rugby League games played today, Oldham won at Barrow by 8 points to 2, while Bailey lost at Hull by 22 points to 12.

Heals Rifle Range To Be Officially Opened Tomorrow

THE official opening of the rifle range at Heals will take place tomorrow afternoon, commencing at 2 o'clock, when local marksmen will gather at the 200-yard mark to fire the first shots of the 1931 season. Those wishing to shoot tomorrow are advised to get in touch with the secretary by phoning E 1622 in order that transportation may be arranged for them. Owing to the slightly wet condition of the range, marksmen are also advised to bring rubbers, since in some places the water has not yet dried up.

ARSENAL XI EXPECTED TO WIN HONORS

Favored to Defeat Liverpool for First Division Title in English Football

MERRY RACE STAGED IN SCOTTISH LOOP

LONDON, April 16 (CP).—Arsenal should win the points necessary to give them the championship of the First Division of the English Soccer League on Saturday. They meet Liverpool at Highbury.

The Londoners are leading Aston Villa by five points, with three more games to play. The Villa go to Leeds United and should also win, which would about decide the United's demotion to the Second Division with Manchester United.

The battle in the Second Division between Tottenham Hotspurs and West Bromwich Albion for promotion to the First Division with Everton was intensified during the week when West Bromwich picked up a couple of points for beating Reading. They are now on even terms with the Spurs.

CLOSE RACE

In the Northern Section of the Third Division, Lincoln City and Tranmere Rovers have still to settle between them the question of the championship. Lincoln City, with a game in hand, are out in front by one point. Lincoln play at home against Rotherham on Saturday, while the Rovers must travel to Gateshead. Lincoln should pull out into an unbeatable lead.

In Scotland, the league championship will soon be settled. Rangers are in the lead with a two-point advantage over Motherwell and a three-point pull on Celtic. The cup winners, however, have a game in hand. All the leading clubs should win on Saturday. Rangers are at home to Hibernians, Celtic to Airdrie, while Motherwell goes to Cowdenbeath.

J. H. Wilson Winner of Golf Meet

J. Harold Wilson captured the Galt Cup at the Victoria Golf Club by defeating Major Wise in the final round with comparative ease, 9 and 8. Wilson played well throughout the tournament and his victory in the thirty-six-hole final was predicted. R. Peachey won the first flight by downing A. G. Beasley, 2 and 1, while W. H. Squire won the second flight laurels from W. H. M. Haldane, 3 and 1.

Wade Killifer Resigns

SAN FRANCISCO, April 16 (AP).—Resignation of Wade Killifer, veteran baseball player and manager, as president and manager of the Mission Baseball Club, due to illness, was announced late today by J. R. Bearwald, acting president.

The club's official statement said: "J. R. Bearwald was elected president, Harry Wiggin was named vice-president, and E. A. Johnson was elected to fill the vacancy as director."

Carnera Reinstated by New York State Bosses

Commission Lift Shackles From Wrists of Ambling Alp Without Any Explanation—Still Barred in California, Says Edgren

NEW YORK, April 16 (AP).—The shackles were stripped from the wrists of Primo Carnera by the New York State Athletic Commission today, and for the first time in a year, fistically speaking, he was a free man again. The solemn fathers lifted the suspension that has hung over the Italian giant since April 30, 1930, without a word of explanation, although everyone in town knew it was scheduled for today.

Carnera, back in good standing, now is free to fight Jack Sharkey for Jimmy Johnson, at Ebbets Field, July 10, on a huge charity card, but Madison Square Garden insists it has a prior lien on his services.

While Johnson is expected to announce definitely that he has closed the Carnera-Sharkey match, the Garden, on behalf of its Illinois subsidiary, already has served notice to all parties concerned that it holds a contract calling for Primo to fight no one but the winner of the Max Schmeling-Young Stribling heavyweight title go in Cleveland. Attorneys for the corporation notified the commission, Johnson, Carnera, Sharkey and a few others by letter today that the law would be called in to prevent any breaches of that contract.

STILL SUSPENDED

Former Eleven Will Make First Showing For Coveted Trophy

Interest Running High Over Forthcoming Battle at Wembley Stadium in Football Classic on April 25—Squads Hail From Same District—Odds Favor West Bromwich

Thousands to Witness Struggle

LONDON, Eng., April 17 (CP).—The climax of another season of English football will be reached on April 25, when, at Wembley Stadium, the final of the oldest and most historic football competition in the world—the Association Cup—will be played between Birmingham and West Bromwich Albion, two teams whose grounds are but a mile or so apart. It is strange that out of 526 clubs who entered the competition that the final should be contested by neighboring teams, but in the long history of the competition which dates back to 1871, there have been three previous occasions when two Birmingham clubs reached the final.

West Bromwich Albion were one of the finalists each time, and Aston Villa were the opponents. Birmingham, however, have never reached a Cup final before. West Bromwich, therefore, are by far the more experienced Cup fighters of the two. By their victory over Everton they qualified for their seventh final and it is a coincidence that, for the fourth time out of seven, they will be opposed by neighbors.

The record of West Bromwich in their previous six finals is as follows:

1886—Blackburn 2, West Bromwich 0 (after a goalless draw in first match).

1887—Aston Villa 2, West Bromwich 0.

1888—West Bromwich 2, Preston North End 1.

1892—West Bromwich 3, Aston Villa 0.

1895—Aston Villa 1, West Bromwich 0.

1910—Barnsley 1, West Bromwich 0 (after a goalless draw in the first match and half an hour extra time in the second match).

In this season's contests West Bromwich have had the harder task of the two finalists. They had to meet Charlton three times before they could enter the fourth round and to qualify for the semi-final they had to play Wolverhampton Wanderers—another Birmingham team—twice. Against Everton in the semi-final they played a heroic game.

They had already met the Second Division leaders twice during the season, and each time they had lost, but against Everton, who had scored in every previous Cup match this season, the "Throstles," as they are called, not only prevented Everton from scoring, but themselves scored the goal which won the match. Their goal may have been a lucky one—it was shot from long range—but the fact remains that they bottled up Dean, the human goal-scoring machine, and his clever colleagues, very thoroughly. With their wing-halves marking the Everton wingers, they left their backs and centre-half free to watch the ubiquitious "Dixie," who was thus frustrated in many of his lightning runs down the field which so often result in goals. These tactics so rattled Everton that when chances were offered them they became panicky in their efforts at goal and were guilty of much wild shooting.

BEATEN IN 1886

Although they have never before reached a final, Birmingham have a little score to pay West Bromwich. At Small Heath, Birmingham won their way into the semi-final of 1886 when they met West Bromwich and were beaten. Birmingham may have benefited by the misfortune of Chelsea, with whom they drew, 2-2, at Birmingham, in the sixth round. In the replay at Chelsea the London club was unable to field its strongest side and Birmingham won, 3-0.

Birmingham, however, had showed their mettle in beating Liverpool previously, and it is a great tribute to their defence that they have conceded only two goals throughout the Cup competition. Birmingham, indeed, have one of the most stubborn and determined defences in the country. Their goalkeeper, Hibbs, takes many risks and is unorthodox, but he is full of pluck and resource, and even when his backs are beaten, Hibbs faces the oncoming forwards with coolness and courage and often robs them single-handed. Birmingham, as the "mystery" team of the Cup, will be a very hard nut for West Bromwich to crack.

London's ill-luck in the Cup competition has become proverbial. Usually blessed with the luck of the draw, London teams are, nevertheless, rarely able to combat the more strenuous tactics of the Northern teams, and although London naturally has more first-class clubs than any other centre in the kingdom, the Cup has been won only on three occasions by a London club since Blackburn took it away from the capital in 1883 by beating the Old Etonians, who were the first London team to win it.

From that time football began to prosper in the North of England. When Blackburn won it from the Old Etonians, Birmingham, or Small Heath, was a minor club, Everton had just begun to play, and the schoolmasters of Sunderland had formed the team which Birmingham defeated in the semi-final this season.

START OF LEAGUE

Blackburn's success spurred these minor clubs to emulation, and the fight for the best players, which ultimately resulted in the professional system, began. Preston North End was the first club openly to pay their players. Their action led to the formation of the Football League and to the beginning of professional football as it is now played.

The listed world records for the 300 and 400-metre swims are 3:35 3-10 and 4:50 3-10, respectively, both held by Arne Borg, of Sweden.

CRICKETERS TO USE SCHEDULE

Outside and Local Fixtures Arranged for Season of Victoria Association

The regular schedule of the Victoria and District Cricket Association for 1931 was drawn up last night. A number of local and outside fixtures are included in order that the league secretary may keep a count of the standing of the various elevens. The new system closely resembles last year's league, which it replaces. The reason for the developing of this schedule was that it was pointed out that it did not tend to develop the sport in the city. Friendly matches were suggested, but were given up for the new method.

Under the new regulations six teams will participate, including Albions, Incogs, Five C's, Victoria, Cowichan and Wanderers.

New rules were also made regarding the playing time of a league game. Formerly the time for a game was four and a half hours, but it was decided to let the captains decide on the time before the game, in order that there would be no hard and fast rules for playing time.

The method for choosing players to represent the city in outside games was also altered. The secretary will keep a table of the standings of each team and player throughout the league, and when time comes for the chosing of a representative squad, it will be done by averages.

The local season will commence on May 2, to finish at the end of August. At that time an Island knockout league will be formed, the winners to meet the leading Mainland eleven for the Tomalin trophy.

Wood Fails to Better Motorboat Mark by Split Second

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., April 16 (AP).—Gar Wood raced his Miss America IX nine times over Indian Creek today in an effort to break the world's motorboat speed record of 103.49 miles an hour, but failed by a split second.

Wood's best two-way average was 103.069 miles an hour. His highest speed for the day was made on his fifth try at 103.249 miles an hour over the measured nautical mile course.

The present record was set by Kaye Don, British racing car driver, in his Miss England II, on the Parana River at Buenos Aires.

After concluding his runs today, Wood said he was undetermined whether he would make further trials at this time. He said it would require several days to recondition the boat.

Victoria and Vancouver "Lee Mon Kow" baseball cup, redonated to bowling by the social club. Miss Birkland, secretary of the league and captain of the Empress Dinging Room team, winners of the cup, will be the recipient on behalf of her quintette.

Invitations have been extended to Olympic trundlers to attend the affair, and these tickets have sold well.

HOLLYWOOD, April 16 (AP).—With divorce proceedings assured and the s[illegible]onds named, all that remained today for the staging of the court bout between Estelle Taylor, of the movies, and Jack Dempsey, former world's heavyweight flatic champion, was the fixing of the time and place.

Can the Thistles Win Without Services of J. Crowe and Harper?

Important Football Question to Be Answered Tomorrow When Suburbanites Meet Jokers in Cup Fixture—Duncan to Battle Wests

Can the Saanich Thistles continue their winning ways without the services of their captain, Joe Crowe, and Wes Harper, fullback? This burning and important question, which has occupied the gossip along soccerdom's battlefront for the past few days, will be answered tomorrow afternoon at the Royal Athletic Park, at 2:45 o'clock, when the suburbanites take the field against the Jokers in the second round of the Peden Cup series. As a part of the double bill arranged by the Lower Island officials, Duncan will meet Victoria West in the second attraction, in the same series, at 4:15 o'clock.

The reason why Crowe and Harper will be on the side lines is well known throughout football circles, both having been suspended by the Lower Island Association as a result of trouble arising out of the semi-final round of the Jackson Cup series. Both will be missed, there is no doubt about that, as the Thistles have relied on these two stalwarts all reason in the majority of their victories.

Just who will take Crowe's place at centre half and Harper's position at fullback is not yet known. One thing is certain, both will be hard to replace. Crowe as a halfback was unbeatable. He broke up dangerous attacks and fed his forwards with great unselfishness, while Harper worked untiringly on the defence, his kicking and clearing attracting the fans' eye.

LINE-UP NOT KNOWN

However, despite all this, the Thistles are fielding a well-balanced eleven, one that is going out after victory from the start. Manager "Shorty" Earle announced his team for the fray yesterday. Bridges, the veteran goalie, will attend to the net, with Armitage and Jack Price at fullback. H. Williams, Eddie Viggers and Jim Crowe will form the half line. Ronnie Williams will be at left wing, flanked by Sammy Easler on the inside position. Barney Burns will be at centre forward, with Johnny Minnis and McMillan on the other side of him. On the other hand, the Jokers, who refused to take the game by default last week, are trotting out the same squad that has carried them to where they are today. Gordie Chalmers, who is ranked next to De Costa, Esquimalt's goalie, as the best in the city, has been assigned to the net duty, while George Leggett and Carmichael will appear on the defence. On the intermediate line will be Heal, Archie Campbell and Stofer, another trio of fine players. Watson, Bunyan, Anderson, Collie and McBay will do the attacking.

Duncan, who shortly will play Esquimalt in the Jackson Cup final, are bringing down a formidable squad to stack up against Victoria West. The greenshirts are confident of taking the Upislanders into camp, and Manager Poyntz will march out his best men with hopes of performing the trick.

With the proceeds of both games going to the injured players' fund, a large turnout of fans is expected to wend their way to the enclosure.

At The Playhouses

CAPITOL THEATRE Fugitive from a hanging squad, with a price on his head! This was the rather unwelcome role which a few years ago was forced on Bela Lugosi, the famous Hungarian actor who is now appearing at the Capitol Theatre in the title role of Universal's sensational mystery drama, "Dracula," by Bram Stoker.

DOMINION THEATRE Ruth Chatterton is afraid of cameras. During her long stage period, before beginning her motion picture career, she avoided cameras as much as possible. Her amazing success on the screen, evidenced by half a dozen outstanding pictures, including "Anybody's Woman," "The Right to Love" and "Unfaithful," the last of which will close at the Dominion Theatre tonight, has been won in spite of this camera timidity. She has never experienced "stage fright," but she admits that cameras bother her—when she thinks of them.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE "The Great Meadow," Charles Brabin's new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, now showing at the Playhouse Theatre, is a talking picture version of the much-discussed historical novel of the same title written by Elizabeth Madox Roberts. This tale of romance, Indian fights and frontier adventures in the Daniel Boone country is depicted by a large cast, including John Mack Brown and Eleanor Boardman.

COLISEUM THEATRE About the art of Josef Von Sternberg, director of "The Blue Angel," showing at the Coliseum Theatre today, there is no doubt. The evidence of this great German and United States director's genius for presenting human documents in celluloid is seen, the moment the play begins and it is apparent throughout this astonishingly powerful production.

SPAGHETTI AND EGGS FAVORED BY CHAPLIN

Spaghetti, with a side order of scrambled eggs and sausages, will undoubtedly become a very popular dish after the initial showing of Charlie Chaplin's long-awaited non-dialogue motion picture production, "City Lights," which opens at the Capitol Theatre on Monday.

Not that spaghetti and scrambled eggs and sausages have not already won popular favor, but it is the Chaplin treatment of these universally consumed edibles that is bound to stimulate new appetites.

In "City Lights," Chaplin takes his spaghetti oozing in olive oil. Not because of any particular flavor that is produced, but for the purpose of adding enjoyment and ease in the consumption.

DENIS HUMPHRIES IN LEADING ROLE

Denis Humphries, who has taker important roles in college and high school plays here, will play the role of Bobbie Baxter in "The Arrival of Kitty," to be presented by the Fairfield Players' Club tonight, in the Sir James Douglas School hall, Woodlands Road, at 8 o'clock. This is one of the best amateur plays staged in Victoria this season and is already booked for Centennial Church on April 24, and several out-of-town engagements. Those in the cast include Molly Johnston, Marjorie Siddall, Eva Parlee, Tillie Cary, Jack Tyrer, Don Fish, Douglas Nixon, James Strang and Dennis Humphries. A good orchestra, directed by Major Watts, will furnish the music. The proceeds will aid Fairfield Church Choir.

MADELEINE CARROLL IS BRITISH BEAUTY

Madeleine Carroll, who plays the lead in British International's "talkie" film, "Young Woodley," coming to the Coliseum Theatre tomorrow, is one of the most beautiful and talented of British screen stars. Born in Birmingham, of French and Irish parents, ever since she was a small child, she had an ambition to go on the stage. For some time she toured the provinces at £3 a week, and eventually meeting Seymour Hicks, the famous actor-manager, was given a part in his production. Her next step was a film contract, and her first appearance before the camera in "Guns of Loos," since when she has played in "The Triumph of the Scarlet Pimpernel" and "What Money Can Buy."

MAIL LESSONS TO B.C. PUPILS

Gramophones Speak French for Correspondence Course Students

Education is brought by mail to 1,400 students in this province, it was stated yesterday by Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe, who explained that the recent advertisement by the Department of Education, asking for information as to the supply of gramophones, was published at the request of some of these students, who are taking language courses.

The department has been asked frequently to recommend a suitable make of gramophone for this purpose, but has steadily refused to do this. Now, however, it will collect and tabulate a list of all gramophones available in British Columbia, and send this list to the students for their own selection. French scholars, in particular, find gramophone records of assistance in studying their courses by mail.

The correspondence school of the Province is one of the most interesting features of the department's work. Its lessons, in the form of regular letters, go out to the sons and daughters of lighthouse keepers in far away parts of the coastline. They reach, too, into the isolated districts of the Northern Interior, and to many places where no regular course of schooling would otherwise be possible.

Unwatched by teachers, unknown in classrooms, the mail order students are avid for knowledge, and make genuinely good progress in the studies that reach them through the post. They perform their given tasks, and mail the completed lessons back to the department for correction. Many boys and girls in this way have progressed through all the grades of a first class education, providing their own commencement exercises, and being their own valedictorians at the close of the mail order term.

NORTH VANCOUVER PRINCIPAL PASSES

NORTH VANCOUVER, April 16 (CP).—John Birgil Macleod, forty-one, a member of the City High School teaching staff since 1914 and principal since 1920, died on Wednesday night at North Vancouver General Hospital, following a brief illness.

While attending the convention of British Columbia Teachers' Association in Victoria a week ago, Mr. Macleod was taken ill and upon arriving home was operated on for appendicitis. Two days ago complications set in, which resulted in his death.

Born in Chilliwack, Mr. Macleod was a member of one of the pioneer families of that community. His father, J. A. Macleod, had for a number of years been reeve of the municipality.

NINE OF THIRTEEN STUDENTS OF NIGHT SCHOOL SUCCESSFUL

Nine out of thirteen Victoria night school students who wrote the Pitman & Sons' shorthand theory examination were successful in obtaining certificates, according to W. H. Binns, supervisor of technical education.

These results are distinctly encouraging in the opinion of J. Moulson, shorthand instructor, and indicate the success of the nightly classes conducted in conjunction with the Victoria School Board.

The successful students receiving certificates were S. Stonier and Misses J. Telfer, W. Wilcox, E. Newburn, D. Crumpiin, J. Nip, E. Mickleson, H. Burton and H. Bayliss.

ARCHBISHOP MAKES SOLEMN ENTRY INTO CHURCH AT JERUSALEM

JERUSALEM, April 16 (AP).—The Archbishop of Canterbury, wearing borrowed canonicals—his own having been left in the Morgan yacht, the Corsair—today made simple, solemn entry into the Church of the Holy Sepulchre.

The orthodox patriarch officiated at a special service in his honor in the Church of the Crusaders, known as the Orthodox Cathedral.

A small mixed crowd witnessed the modest procession, which included the archbishop, on its march from Jaffa Gate. The archbishop was accompanied by the Anglican bishop, the residential canon, the archdeacon, and English, American and Palestine chaplains.

The Secret of MARGARET YORKE

By Kathleen Norris

Copyright 1931 by Hearst Newspapers Distributed by Arkell Syndicate

The Story Thus Far:

Margaret Yorke, an attractive young woman from New York, is companion to Mrs. Cutting, in California, and governess to Mrs. Cutting's small, adopted son Jim. Mrs. Cutting knows nothing of Margaret's antecedents. Margaret takes a dislike to Mrs. Cutting's nephew, Stanley Crittenden, because of his apparently idle habits. Stanley is curious about Margaret. At a bridge game he is attracted to Margaret, but she is coldly indifferent to him. Mrs. Cutting comes to Margaret's room at night and tells her that Mrs. Cuyler Theobald, of New York, the former Shirley Wilson, and once Stanley's fiancee, is coming back to get a divorce. At the mention of Cuyler Theobald's name, Margaret turns pale. The family go to their ranch at Uplands, and Margaret, driving with Stanley, tells him what she has heard about Shirley's coming. Stanley takes the news calmly. Margaret, at the farm, finds that her dislike of Stanley is being overcome. Margaret establishes herself as a favorite with the week-end guests at Uplands. Stanley returns alone to the farm, after the guests have departed, and he and Margaret find themselves falling in love. Back at Burlingame Shirley Wilson Theobald has settled in the Peruvian house. Society decides not to forgive Shirley, but she is determined to be recognized. She attends a strawberry fete, where she meets Margaret and questions her about Stan.

CHAPTER VII

A week after the strawberry fete Mrs. Theobald came to the Country Club. Again she was exquisitely dressed, and again irreproachably chaperoned. This time she was with the Wainwrights, the most conservative members of the old guard.

She remained only a few minutes; stopped to speak to one or two plain unresponsive old friends, nodded to a dozen more, and sauntered down the steps from the porch with young Bill Spears. She promptly dismissed Bill when she saw the little Cutting boy walking along with Miss Yorke.

"We're walking home to lunch," said Margaret. "Jim and I ride too much, and Jim wants to be an athlete some day——"

"To swim like Stan," said Jim manfully.

"I wonder how Stan felt toward Mrs. Cutting adopting this child?" Shirley asked, with a glance downward at Jim.

"He seems very fond of him," Margaret answered.

"I daresay! He'll only do him out of about half a million!" Shirley said laughing. "Where did Mrs. Cutting get him?"

Through Mr. Trowbridge, the New York lawyer, I believe."

"Trowbridge! I know that old tight-wad," Shirley said with a frown. "All Cuyler's business goes through him, and a nice time we had with him. By the way, do you play bridge?"

"Yes," Margaret said, no longer surprised at the casual way with which Cuyler Theobald could be mentioned by this woman who had been his wife, but shaken by her own thoughts, nevertheless.

"And are Stanley and his aunt going to the Murray party tonight?"

"I think—I know they are."

"Couldn't you come down and have dinner with me?" Shirley said. "Mrs. de Vilbiss is coming, and an old friend—a man who happens to be here from New York."

"I'd love to. But perhaps I had better speak to Mrs. Cutting first——"

When Margaret went in, Mrs. Cutting was lying down, and Margaret found the simple matter of the Theobald invitation unexpectedly awkward to introduce. She went into her employer's room, as she was always privileged to do, and found her resting, with Carrie brushing her thin hair.

Margaret took her sewing-basket, sat down, and began a resume of the day; what Jim had said and who had praised him. Oh, yes, and Mrs. Theobald had been at the club.

"Anybody speak to her?" Mrs. Cutting asked interestedly.

"I don't know, because I had Jimmie at the slides. But the Wainwrights brought her, and their maid told the Bishop chauffeur—" Margaret interrupted herself to laugh. "This is below-stairs gossip with a vengeance," she said.

"Never mind—go on—what'd she say?" said Mrs. Cutting eagerly.

"Well, she said that Mrs. Theobald had found the Wainwright's dog. He'd run away, it seems," said Margaret, "and that Mrs. Theobald had said she was coming to the club and asked them if they would give her a lift."

"Isn't that exactly like her?" breathed Mrs. Cutting in a tone of triumph. "She probably stole the dog," she added, with deep amusement, and even surprise, at her own humor.

Now was the time to repeat the invitation; Margaret introduced it casually. She had been asked to fill a bridge table. She would be entirely willing to telephone Mrs. Theobald and say that Mrs. Cutting had given her something to do this evening.

But to her surprise Mrs. Cutting hesitated. No, she said finally, perhaps it would be a good idea for Miss Yorke to go, if she didn't mind. She implied that Shirley Theobald would be the talk of the hour, after all, and, since everyone would be thirsty for details concerning her, it might be as well to be the dispensers of these details.

Margaret felt the situation to be one of the strangest in her life, when she sat at Shirley Theobald's dinner table a few hours later.

Mrs. Theobald wore a black lace dress, her hair, her complexion, her jewels, were perfection under the lamps. She was a delightful hostess, merry and amusing, and long before the evening was over Margaret could forgive Elise de Vilbiss her capitulation, or indeed forgive anybody who found it easy to be kind to Shirley Theobald. The fourth member of the group was a handsome middle-aged man, who talked incessantly.

"Your face is familiar to me somehow, Miss Yorke," he said unexpectedly during the deal. His fine smiling eyes were shrewdly fixed upon her.

"Mine?" Margaret asked, flushing brightly over her soft dark skin.

"Yours. Did you ever live in New York?"

"New York hasn't been my home for ten years."

"That's funny. You come from——?"

"From—the Middle West."

"Ah, I don't know the Middle West at all. My say, is it?" He considered his cards. "You passed, Mrs. Theobald. I say—by. H'm! That's very funny."

"Three hearts," Margaret said serenely. But Shirley noticed her breath was coming quickly.

The two women parted at midnight with the air of old friends, and after that an odd indefinable relationship sprang up between them.

Margaret, under her charming manner, found Shirley, as she had expected to find her, a complete egotist; there was only one person in the world to Shirley Theobald. She wanted to justify herself, to blame herself, to analyze and describe herself, to beautify herself.

But she did this with unusual charm. Perhaps some instinct of self-protection taught her to make this favorite topic charming to others persons. Margaret thought her nothing short of fascinating in the cold and calculating selfishness that was so perfumed, so prettily garbed, so wittily presented.

Among a hundred other triumphs, she told Margaret all about the long-ago affair with Stan, and Margaret winced inwardly at the thought of Stan with Shirley in his arms, at the picture of Stan furnishing a home for Shirley.

"Fool that I was!" said Shirley frankly. "It would have been ideal in every way. I would have been here, among my own people, we'd have had children. But—" And she sighed. "But there's always been a crazy streak in me," she admitted.

Margaret analyzed her as being one of the women to whom sex, in life, is all-important; her own beauty and attractiveness appeared to Shirley as nothing more than weapons in the old game.

Stanley Crittenden, cutting across the little connecting lane that ran between Wylies' and his aunt's gardens, chanced to meet Shirley at twilight upon a certain hot evening in late August.

They stood and chatted for a moment, Shirley raising that flower-like, happy face of hers to his.

"Come in and see me for a moment, Stan. I'm all alone."

She opened the gate as she spoke.

"I—I—oughtn't——" Shirley did not particularly attract him, and he was going home to dinner. But he nodded, bent his tall head to go through the curved top of the gate, and followed her to the deep, cool, orderly porch.

Shirley threw herself into a long chair and rang for something cool to drink. It was restful here, secluded and quiet, and Stan, comfortable in his own chair, heard a clock somewhere strike a silvery five and told himself that if he reached home—two hundred feet away—even in an hour, he would still be earlier than they expected him.

"Stan," Shirley said to him, "do you know that's an extremely pretty woman, Miss Yorke?"

"We don't think so," Stan answered smiling. And as Shirley looked up in pleased surprise, he added good-naturedly: "We think she's beautiful. Doesn't she seem so to you?"

"Ye-es— I never thought of it. I suppose she is," Shirley conceded unwillingly. "In that sort of dark way," she added, thoughtfully and disparagingly. "Tell me about her," she commanded.

"I don't know a thing about her," Stanley said. "She can mind her own business better than anyone I ever saw. She's clever, she manages everything, my aunt thrown in, with one hand. The kid adores her, and Aunt Hat does, too——"

He grinned, looked down at this drink, and finished it, leaving his sentence in the air.

"Look out, Stan!" Shirley said lightly. "You know I'm not going to let anyone marry you, Stan."

"I can assure you, my dear," Stanley said drily, "that Miss Yorke has no intention of changing her position. As a matter of fact, she doesn't like me."

"No, but tell me," Shirley said interestedly and eagerly. "Has she a suitor? She's such a close-mouthed creature. I'm dying to hear about her. Has she a beau?"

"She has had," Stan answered briefly, and with a grin he added, "She had—me."

Shirley was thunderstruck. Color came into her face, and she smiled incredulously; she would have been glad to think that Stan was not serious.

Shirley knew him to be oddly simple, old-fashioned in his ideas of women, almost—by her standard, at least—a prude. No modern smoking, drinking girl would get him. But an experienced, devoted woman might. Shirley had before this made up her mind that he was well worth watching, well worth winning back to friendship at least, if no more.

It was therefore painfully disconcerting to have his own admission that all he had to offer had been already laid at the feet of Margaret Yorke.

"Stan, you don't mean it," she said. "Tell me about it—te!" me about it," she coaxed him. Stanley shrugged.

"Nothing to tell, my dear. We had a house party at the ranch, and she managed us all—the crowd, my aunt, the kid, the staff; it all went like clockwork. After it was over, I got to thinking that she was the whole thing, she'd made it so wonderful, and I went back and told her so, and asked her to let me make love to her. She—declined."

"In the name of heaven, why?" she asked with a little apologetic laugh.

"Well, she had other plans, possibly."

"You mean she's engaged to somebody else?" Shirley asked in relief.

"Oh no, I don't imagine so. But isn't it conceivable that she doesn't like me?"

"No, it's not," said Shirley, shortly and crossly.

"Don't tell her I mentioned this."

"Oh, Stan—as if I would."

They sat on in silence for a few minutes, Shirley thinking deeply. She had never thought of Margaret Yorke as a real person, much less as a rival before.

"I wonder why she refused him?" she asked herself a hundred times. And a hundred times she added, in her heart, "She'll never have another chance."

SENTENCED ON FRAUD CHARGES

E. G. Hooper Will Serve Four Months for Passing Worthless Cheques

Terms totaling four months' imprisonment were meted out to Edward Garfield Hooper, in the city police court yesterday by Magistrate George Jay, on ten counts of obtaining money by false pretences. The accused pleaded guilty to seven of the charges and was convicted on three others.

Hooper was sentenced to two months on a charge of obtaining a sum of money from M. W. Graham, and a similar period on the E. A. Morris charge to be served at the expiration of the first term. On all the other charges the accused was sentenced to two months, the terms to run concurrently with the first two.

Stuart Henderson, defence counsel, said that restitution had been made in all cases. It was apparent, he added, that offences had been committed because of absolute necessity.

Hooper has been in British Columbia six years, coming here from Ontario, where he was born.

A report from the fish and game committee showed that a further inspection of the Mill Stream will be made shortly; the water in the river being too high at present.

The scheme entails the construction of a fish ladder at the falls, and the removal of a number of log jams between the bay and the lake.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

INSULIN AND DIABETES

One of the incurable ailments that statistics show has been increasing during the past fifty years is diabetes.

That this is due to the fact that life is easier now that there are not the severe trials of former times, is generally admitted. The mechanic has not the difficult work of years ago, nor has the farmer. Both have profited from the inventions of machinery that lessen physical labor.

But with the lessening of the physical labor there has been a lessening also in the effort necessary to obtain food, good food of all kinds, and man has naturally taken advantage of all this.

As you know, that body of yours is covered with a mass of muscle, from a fraction of an inch to a number of inches in thickness. As this mass of muscle was expected to work, Nature gave you a large stomach to take in enough food to supply this huge bulk of muscle. However, as your stomach is large—three pints in size—you naturally think it should be filled, and so may put in this much—or more—food and liquid three or four times a day.

This food does not increase the size of your muscle or increase your strength, because you take no physical exercise, but it is very likely to increase your weight, increase the amount of fat in your system. Fat accumulates over these muscles, under them, and sometimes throughout them.

Fortunately this does not cause diabetes in every case, but the figures show that the majority of diabetics were originally overweight.

For years diets to prevent increases in fat were prescribed and wonderful results obtained. In fact, many physicians are still able to so supervise a patient's diet that he is kept alive and often able to do his work.

However, diabetes kept gradually increasing until the year 1922, when Banting discovered insulin.

Drs. M. A. Ross and N. E. McKinnon, Toronto, tell us that the death rates for men and women under fifty years of age have shown a marked decrease since 1922. When we think of the wonderful contribution in service men and women in the prime of life can make to the world, we certainly have much for which to thank Dr. Banting.

Insulin is now procurable practically everywhere.

How It Started

By Jean Newton

"KEEPING BODY AND SOUL TOGETHER"

This phrase, to express the idea of merely achieving existence, of sustaining life, usually with the implication of just not starving to death, has been popularly used in everyday speech beyond the memory of our older generation.

Strange, you may say, because it has the flavor of modern slang.

Stranger still, the fact is that the expression had its origin as far back as 1799, being first used by Maria Edgeworth, in "Castle Rackrent."

Although the largest companies in Trinidad have been curtailing output, oil production there last year was four times that of ten years ago.

DRAMATIC SOCIETY GIVES CONCERT AT AGED MEN'S HOME

On Wednesday evening the Electra Dramatic Society presented a concert to the inmates of the Home for Aged Men. The society's choir rendered two glee songs. Solos were given by Mrs. M. Clark and Mrs. F. White. Reg Stofer contributed a whistling solo, and Elsie Wilson gave a tap dance. Mr. Semple gave two monologues which were well received, and Mrs. Stofer stirred them with old-time melodies played on her accordion. Piano solos were rendered by Bob Taylor, who also accompanied for two folk dances, which the senior group of Jenny Boyd's School of Dancing had given.

At the close of the programme, refreshments were served by members of the society, following which a short dance was held.

Frank Jennings acted as master of ceremonies. The entertainment committee consisted of Mrs. W. Mortimer, Mrs. J. B. Hudson and A. W. Semple.

The next performance of the society will be on May 1, when it will present the play, "Red Acre Farm," at St. Aidan's Hall.

Sooke Harbor Plant Makes Traps Ready For Salmon Season

Management Will Operate Throughout Year With Normal Crew—Believe Condition of Industry Will Justify No Curtailment

"While the market for salmon is not any too bright at the present time, we do not intend to curtail our operations in any way during the approaching fishing season," C. F. Goodrich, manager of the Sooke Harbor Fishing & Packing Company, stated yesterday. "Right now we have completed the driving of piles for three of our traps and are hanging wire today. We expect to be taking fish by the end of the month.

"The weather has been all in our favor since we started getting things in shape, in which work we are employing the normal crew, all residents of Sooke, whom we have had in our employ for a number of years past. We will operate the same number of traps as last year, six in all when the main run of fish is on. Anticipating that the 1930 peak will be absorbed before the end of this season, and because of the fact that fewer canneries will put up fish in 1931, we believe we are justified in carrying on as usual, keeping our organization intact, and with no reduction in wages."

This is the year for a big run of pink salmon in this locality, Mr. Goodrich explained. This variety of fish runs strong in the Strait of Fuca every alternate year. In 1930, the northern districts put up a big pack of this particular salmon, and this year it will be the turn of the British Columbia and Puget Sound fishermen.

Every Fall after the fishing season is finished, the netting is removed from the piling in the Strait near Sooke, the piles are drawn and stowed away for the Winter months. With the early Spring the traps are again set up and made ready for the harvest of the sea, which is regulated by wind and tide as far as the trap fishermen are concerned. Unless these latter favored the trap men, Mr. Goodrich concluded, they were out of luck, as they could not follow the fish like the seiner, their appliances being all fixed. If the fish do not come in shore, they cannot be taken in traps. That is why favorable winds and currents are craved while the fish are passing in to the spawning grounds.

LINER CUTS TIME AGAIN

BROUGHT LARGE LIST OF WORLD TRAVELERS

Beating her former record by slightly more than seven hours, the Canadian Pacific liner Ss. Empress of Japan, Captain Samuel Robinson, O.B.E., R.N.R., arrived at Rithet Piers at 8:30 o'clock last evening from the Philippine Islands via China and Japan ports. The officers of the ship reported an uneventful voyage, the ship being favored with fine weather all the way across. The Empress brought one of the biggest passenger lists carried by any liner for some time. In all classes there were 830 travelers aboard. There were 200 in the first class, 150 in the second class, 80 in the third class and 400 in the steerage. Prominent in the first class, where the greater part of B. deck was reserved for them, were the King and Queen of Siam, Prince and Princess Svasti and members of their suites; Sir Arthur and Lady Currie, the former being principal of McGill University, returning home from India, where he was Canada's representative at the opening of New Delhi as capital of British India.

NEAR DROWNING

One episode that was not on the official calendar of the reception to the Siamese royal party took place at the dockside last evening, soon after the Empress of Japan had warped her way into the Rithet Piers. Masatoki Utsumiya, a Japanese who had been acting in a distraught way for several days, suddenly plunged over the side and fell with a splash into the water between the liner and the dock. Almost as soon as the alarm was raised he could be seen swimming under the dock, where he grasped a pile and held on until a rope was lowered to him. Drenched, but little the worse for his immersion, the victim of the mishap was hoisted to the surface of the dock on the southern side of the pier. Willing hands baled on to the rope, and soon had the dripping man on his feet again. He was rushed into warm blankets and soon pronounced out of all danger.

Other prominent passengers were Captain and Mrs. Cantle, Hongkong, where Captain Cantle is commander of H.M.S. Medway, submarine mother ship in Asiatic waters; Lieut.-Colonel and Mrs. L. M. Cosgrave, Shanghai, the former being Canadian Government trade commissioner in China, en route home on vacation; Lieut.-Colonel and Mrs. Birks, Montreal, the former being administrative secretary of the Y.M.C.A., and recently completed an extensive tour of the Orient; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Fitzpatrick, New York, the former being a motion picture director returning home from a world cruise; Mr. and Mrs. George S. Parker, president of the Parker Pen Company, returning to Janesville after a tour of the Orient; and V. Aldanese and family, the former insular collector of customs for the Philippine Islands, proceeding to the United States on vacation.

BUSINESS REPRESENTATIVES

Also aboard were Sir Hugh Cunliffe-Owen, London, chairman of the British American Tobacco Company, returning home after a business trip to Shanghai; Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Brooks, Hankow, where Mr. Brooks represents the Standard Oil Company, New York; R. C. Harrison, New York, director of British American Tobacco Company, who has been traveling with Sir Hugh Cunliffe-Owen on company business in China; Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Hutchison, New York, where Mr. Hutchison is vice-president of General Motors Acceptance Corporation; Warren J. Jones, Chicago, head of the W. C. Jones Foundry & Engineering Company, returning from a visit to the Orient; C. C. Smith, prominent lawyer of Tokio, on vacation to New York; Mr. and Mrs. J. R. McKinley, Tokio, where Mr. McKinley is adviser to the Mitsubishi Fire Insurance Company, proceeding to England on vacation; Lieut.-Colonel Ernest Pugmire and family, Tokio, where Colonel Pugmire is chief secretary of the Salvation Army; V. G. Bowen, Shanghai, connected with A. Cameron & Company, en route to Trail to confer with Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company officials; and R. R. Liddell, Vancouver, engineer superintendent for Canadian Pacific Steamships, returning from supervision of annual overhaul of company's transpacific steamers.

May Avert Threatened Strike of Masters and Mates

VANCOUVER, April 16.—It is reported on the waterfront that the threatened strike of towboat masters and mates, which sets April 21 as the date for taking action, may be delayed or settled through the Federal Department of Labor. There is a possibility that a board of arbitration or conciliation may be formed and instructed to investigate, under the Industrial Disputes Act.

If the strike comes it will affect practically all of the log-towing companies, about 150 vessels and 200 masters and mates. The railway companies and two other companies have already signed agreements with the men, through the official organization, the Canadian Merchant Service Guild, and they will not be affected.

STEAMSHIP MAN GETS PROMOTED

Well-Known Transportation Official Leaving Pacific Coast for New York

C. C. Mallory, general manager of the Panama Mail Steamship Company, announced recently that Roy V. Crowder, for the last eleven years head of passenger traffic for the Los Angeles Steamship Company, has been appointed passenger traffic manager of the Panama Mail Steamship Company, effective July 1, with headquarters in New York.

Crowder, one of the best-known and most popular passenger traffic experts on the Pacific Coast, is generally credited by steamship and railroad officials with being responsible for the successful development of the coastwise and Hawaiian passenger services of the Los Angeles Steamship Company.

Within a few days, Crowder will sever his official connections with the Los Angeles Steamship Company. Crowder stated he planned a three months' vacation before departing for New York to assume his duties with the Grace Line interests.

Several months ago, with the merger of the Matson Navigation Company and the Los Angeles Steamship Company, several offers were made by large steamship and railroad lines to Crowder. However, Crowder elected to become passenger traffic manager of the Panama Mail Steamship Company, following negotiations made by Edward T. Ford, president, and C. C. Mallory, respectively, of the Panama Mail Steamship Company.

Backed by an extensive experience in both railroad and steamship travel, Crowder first gained recognition in 1910, when he became general agent of the Western Pacific and Denver & Rio Grande Railroads, with headquarters in San Francisco. This position he held all during the trying times of the war, leaving his railroad position in 1918 to become affiliated with the old Toyo Kisen Kaisha, now the Nippon Yusen Kaisha, as general passenger agent.

Commenting on Crowder's leaving the Los Angeles Steamship Company, Ralph J. Chandler, vice-president and general manager of the company, said:

"Roy V. Crowder, in charge of passenger traffic of the coastwise and Hawaiian services of our company during the past eleven years, has been largely responsible for the success achieved and I much regret his decision to leave the service of this company. At the same time it is gratifying to all of us who have enjoyed business association with him here to know that he has gone to one of the large steamship organizations of the United States in a position he is well qualified to fill and in which we are confident of his success."

Deep Sea Shipping Makes Busy Night For Dock Workers

Huge Passenger Liner and Freight Ship at Rithet Piers Last Night—Japanese Freighter Loading Lumber for Orient Ports

The ocean docks were busy last night with two ships alongside. There were the Empress of Japan, inbound from the Orient, and the Japanese freighter Tohesi Maru, which docked early in the afternoon from the Orient via Seattle.

Shipping for the balance of the week will be confined to the arrival at Rithet Piers of the United States Mail liner Ss. President Madison, which is due to sail for the Philippine Islands via Japan and China ports on Saturday afternoon at 6 o'clock. There will be no inbound ship of the United States Mail Line arriving this week, the new schedule coming into effect with the arrival of the Ss. President Taft on Tuesday morning next. The President ships will call every second week on the same day until further notice.

The Saturday sailings of the liners will still continue.

On Sunday morning, the liner Ss. Ruth Alexander, of the Pacific Steamship Company's fleet, will sail from Rithet Piers at 9 o'clock for San Francisco. On the same day, King Brothers, local shipping agents, announce that the freighter Ss. Rochelle, of the Kingsley Navigation Company's fleet and a regular caller here, will arrive at Ogden Point Piers with cargo for discharge. From South America, via San Francisco, King Brothers report the freighter Coya due at James Island on Monday next to discharge 1,200 tons of nitrate for the Canadian Explosives. Handling the Tohesi Maru while here, the firm is loading the ship with 700,000 feet of lumber.

PIRATE PLUNDER OBJECT OF HUNT

Reported Treasure Buried on Small Island on Nova Scotia Coast

SYDNEY, N.S., April 16 (CP).—Whether Captain William Kidd sank his plunder from the Malabar Coast on Oak Island, that little upthrust of earth in Nohone Bay, is to have another invasion of pick and shovel and pump, or whether their modern equivalents.

This latest attempt to wrest reputed treasure from the island has already reached the contract-signing stage, the work having been entrusted to a firm of building contractors. Associated with the venture is William Chappell, who was employed in an unsuccessful attempt to lift the treasure in 1897, and who declares "he has not the slightest doubt" that a hoard lies buried on the island. Modern machinery, he believes, will bring it to the surface.

RUTH ALEXANDER LATE

Due at 10 o'clock last night from California ports, the Pacific Steamship Company's liner Ss. Ruth Alexander will not dock until 10 o'clock this morning. No reason was given for the delay. She will arrive alongside Rithet Piers at the hour stated, and after disembarking Victoria and Vancouver passengers and discharging local freight, will proceed to Seattle.

Decline Continues At Moderate Rate; Rails at New Lows

NEW YORK, April 16 (AP).—A quiet decline in stocks was interrupted by sluggish rallies today. Although the movement as a whole was much narrower than yesterday, closing prices were lower.

The market was governed rather closely by the fluctuating fortunes of United States Steel common, which bobbed about erratically. It made a new low since 1927, when the 40 per cent stock dividend was declared, almost recovered its loss and then sold off in the final dealings to close at 132, down 1 3-8. The day's minimum was 131 2-4.

Rails weakened into new low ground; Southern Railway preferred sold at the lowest since 1923, and Union Pacific was down to 1927 levels. Total sales approximated 2,300,000 shares.

A large majority of the net declines ranged from a fraction to 2 points, but there were several softer spots in the specialties. International silver dropped 10 1-2.

The Argentine peso slumped with the change in Government and Spain's peseta lost a considerable portion of yesterday's gain on the reported statement of her Finance Minister that the stabilization credit would be used. Other foreign currencies were dull.

The bond market wavered back and forth, and closing prices in the majority of instances represented small net changes, although one or two groups were firm at times.

Vancouver Stock Market Records Few Changes in Session of Light Trade

VANCOUVER, April 16 (CP).—Reports of new gold strikes at Oregon Copper and Reno Gold resulted in considerable buying in the stocks of these companies on the Vancouver Exchange, Thursday. Aside from these outstanding performers, and fair accumulation in A.P. Consolidated, the market moved indifferently, with prices generally closing unchanged. Sales fell approximately 13,000 shares below Wednesday's turnover.

Reports from Reno property indicate that recently ore running from $80 to $90 per ton was encountered for seventy feet in the No. 4 vein. The stock opened strong at 23 cents and during the forenoon session reached a high at 25 cents, to end the day at 24 cents bid, a net increase of 2 cents.

From an initial sale at 9 1-2 cents Oregon Copper rose to 10 cents. In the final session the stock opened at 12 cents and hardened to 12 1-2 cents, to close at 11 cents bid, up 1 1-2 cents above the previous close.

Street gossip of unfavorable results at Big Missouri started moderate selling in the issue in the late dealings and the price dropped 1 1-2 cents net to 43 1-2 cents. It is believed that since commencement of milling operations by Consolidated Mining, 120 tons of ore have passed through the mill. Samples have recently been brought here by the company for assay, and future development work depends on the results.

In light trading, Premier reflected weakness on Toronto Standard and sold down 3 cents to 82 cents bid. Pioneer also eased and closed with a net loss of 1 cent at 1.60. In the base metals prices were firm.

Fair buying interest in A.P. Consolidated featured the oils list. The stock closed fractionally higher at 34 cents. United gained 1 cent at 17 cents, while Merland dipped 1 1-2 cents net at 15 cents. Royalite lost 50 cents at 10.00, and Sterling Pacific sagged 1 cent to 12 cents.

Whitney Says Market Nears Battle Ground

NEW YORK, April 17.—Whitney, of the Wall Street Financial Bureau, says:

With yesterday's addition of 2 points in the averages to the previous decline, I believe the market has been brought to the top of an area where the contesting of the ease with which the shorts have been recently depressing the market will be witnessed. This area would fall in between an upper limit of 162 in the industrial averages and a lower level of 158 running 4 points in width. In an intermediate position in relation to this territory stands the low of this year at 161.45, while the December lows are a little below the area at about 157. For the market to go down to the lower limits of the support territory would mean that we would have a new low for the year 1931, even if the absolute bear market low is still not violated. As pointed out yesterday, there are many reasons to expect the application of strenuous efforts to a manoeuvre designed to record a new low for the year, and now that the market is within less than 2 points of it the effort is to be logically expected, with its timing coming either today or over the week-end, the latter of which periods characteristically play to the advantage of bear manoeuvres which have the down momentum of any given week already accrued in their favor.

It thus becomes more or less of a certainty that we will have to pass through the spectacle of seeing a new low made for this year, but I believe that it is likewise a certainty that the range between 158 and 162 will at a later date prove to have been the hotly-contested territory in which selling reached its climax and the definite defeat of the bear interests administered.

A.P. Con.'s New Well

(Mason & Diespecker)

CALGARY, April 16.—A.P. Consolidated No. 1, Spring Coulee, is drilling out cement at around 5,920 feet. This is a new acreage and has a bearing on several companies' acreage. There appears to be a short interest in this stock, which is one reason for the upward trend. No. 1, in the Taber field, is cemented and expect to drill out cement and go down to production in a day or so.

TORONTO MINING STOCK EXCHANGE

TORONTO, April 16 (CP).—Though losses were general throughout the mining list at the close today, changes were of more or less unimportant proportions, with the easier tone attributed to uncertain demand rather than liquidation.

Teck Hughes dropped to $8.10. Lake Shore and Dome lost a quarter each, and declines of from 2 to 6 cents appeared in Vipond, Wright-Hargreaves, Hollinger and Mining Corporation.

Sylvanite and St. Anthony gained a cent or so each. Moss was off 5 to 46, Eldorado 13 to 60, and McLeod, Siscoe, Big Missouri, Kirkland Lake Gold and San Antonio a couple apiece.

Noranda and Nickel were off a quarter each. Waite-Ackerman was down 5. Chibougamau Prospectors 3 to 48. Sudbury Basin was down 10 at 60.

Mordon and Acme Gas lost 4 each to 35 and 18 respectively.

Argentine Wheat Growers This Year Get Less Than 11c Par Value Per Bushel

The following data show the net return to wheat growers in Argentina on the basis of market prices on March 31:

	Cents per bu.
Liverpool price (March 31, 1931) Argentine Rosafe (62 lbs.), April shipment	56.76
Deduct:
Outturn and marine insurance, approximately	1.50
Average ocean freight (March 19), Argentina ports to Liverpool	12.50
Price per bushel in Canadian currency, f.o.b. Argentine ports.	44.75

Note.—The Argentine paper peso at par is worth 42 45-100 Canadian cents, but on March 31, 1931, it was worth only 34¾ cents. As all the following charges are payable in Argentine currency, they should be deducted from the price per bushel at Argentine ports, expressed in Canadian cents at the par rate of exchange, which is 54.67

Deduct:
Customs brokers' fee	0.37
Official charges, stamps and labor	1.12
Statistical charge	0.42
Insurance	0.14
Commission to broker	0.74
Free labor contribution fee	0.09
Loading on steamer	0.23
Elevator storage, seven days	0.20
Unloading into elevator	0.46
Port traction charge	1.00
Average railway freight for average haul of 144 miles	1.74
Loading in cars	0.94
Weighing	0.04
Storage at country station	0.90
Hauling from farm to railway station, average distance ten miles	6.50
Bags	5.00
Total cost of handling and shipping from average farm to f.o.b. Argentine ports	21.09
Net return to grower on farm	23.65
Average cost of threshing	11.00
Net return to grower for producing and harvesting	12.65
Allowing for discount on Argentine exchange this is equal to	16.66

Note.—It should be borne in mind that the above computation is based upon the price of 63-pound Rosafe wheat in sound condition, and is therefore a good deal higher than the actual return for the average run of wheat. Mr. Jackson, the Canadian Pool's representative in the Argentine, reports that 35 per cent of the crop is light in weight, and of this amount 20 per cent is undesirable for milling. In addition, there is considerable tough, damp and smutty wheat. Moreover, it should be remembered that the net return to the producer for growing and harvesting of 12.65 cents per bushel is calculated at par rate of exchange, and is equivalent to only 10.65 Canadian cents for purchases outside the Argentine.

EASTERN MINE NEWS

(Mason & Diespecker)

TORONTO, April 16.—Present interest in Chibougamau prospectors is said to be based on a new deal under negotiations with New York interests. It is reported Dr. Friederich Esser, president of Metallum, Limited, and widely-known geologist and chemist, is preparing to take in a party to investigate the property, the trip to be made, if possible, by airplane prior to the break-up. Just who is behind the move has not been established, but Dr. Esser's former association with large pyrite development in Norway and Germany is thought to be significant.

It is understood a meeting of the shareholders of Acme Gas & Oil will be called shortly to consider a proposal to increase the capital stock of the company. A block of stock will be offered to shareholders, it is rumored, the offering to be firmly underwritten. Funds will be used to pay off flowing indebtedness, for acquirement of a new property now under negotiation and for further development of gas holdings in Southwestern Ontario.

Eldorado Gold Mines, Limited, will hold its annual meeting on April 24, when it is expected that shareholders will be furnished additional news regarding the possibilities of the property in the Great Bear district, and also something new regarding the outlook for mining and treating of the radium-bearing ores.

The new concentrator at Sherritt-Gordon mines is now treating slightly better than 400 tons daily and is running smoothly, reports from the property indicate. Sherritt recently shipped four cars of concentrate to the Flin Flon smelter, and it is said that regular shipments will be going forward within a few days. From officials on the property it is learned that there is a likelihood of a second unit being started up which will bring treating capacity to around 1,200 tons daily.

The second unit may be used to treat material from the eastern ore body, it is reported.

Officials of Abana mines state that subscription to the proposed new issues of five-year 7 per cent convertible debentures are now being received subject to shareholders ratifying the proposed capital stock changes at the annual meeting to be held on April 28.

Shareholders of Everett Mines, Limited, at a recent meeting, approved a resolution calling for the surrender of the company's charter. The shares have been removed from the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange.

The shares of Dunkin Gold Mines, Limited, have been dropped from the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange list. The company's property has been idle for the past few years, and it is stated that the equipment is now being disposed of in preparation for the final winding up of the enterprise.

The shares of Fabyan Pete, Limited, have been approved for listing on the Standard Exchange. The company is capitalized at 3,000,000 shares of no par value, of which 1,438,985 shares have been issued. Fabyan controls 13,360 acres in the Fabyan structure in Alberta and has completed three producing gas wells.

Shares of Canusa Mining & Exploration Company, Limited, have been accepted for listing on the Standard Exchange, but will not be called for some days. A meeting of shareholders has been called for April 24 to pass on certain resolutions, including withdrawal of the class "A" stock.

Supplies and equipment for Summer operations have now been delivered to the Tashota gold mines property, Western Ontario, according to latest advices. The company recently arranged for new finances with Montreal interests. While details are not available it is believed that shareholders will be asked to pool their stock while the financial arrangements are in force. The agreement calls for a regular payment schedule to the company at a rate sufficient to take care of proposed development work. The Tashota property has received considerable attention in the past and operations were suspended due to the collapse of previous financial arrangements.

TORONTO GENERAL STOCK EXCHANGE

TORONTO, April 16 (CP).—Several new lows appeared in some sections of the list on the stock exchange today, and generally throughout there was a drop in prices. Volume was somewhat below that of yesterday.

International Nickel and Noranda along with mining issues, showed losses.

Interlisted shares were probably the hardest hit on the board, and losses here ranged from minimum fractions in some instances to well over a point in others.

Food issues scored recessions nearing the close.

Canada Bud shot up a point or more to close at the highest level of the season.

ARGENTINE EXCHANGE

BUENOS AIRES, April 16 (AP).—The Banco de la Nacion early today decided to withdraw its support from the Exchange. The gold peso fell from yesterday's closing mark of 126.2 at New York to 135.

The local manager of the American Bank said that Banco Nacion's intention was to allow the peso to find its own level.

Banking circles are nervous over possible developments.

When Long in Trumps the Best Defence Is to Open Long Side Suit

Very often the choice of an opening lead is a very vexing question. However, there is one very general rule of procedure when holding four trumps. This is that the long side suit should be opened practically regardless of what the honor combination may be.

In the above deal played by South with Hearts the trump, West in order to follow the above rule must open a Spade—the suit in which he holds a Major tenace. As a matter of fact the Declarer holds the King of Spades and the Spade opening gives him a trick in that suit which he would never have made otherwise, yet in the end it saves game, for West upon winning Declarer's Heart finesse is enabled to force Declarer to trump, reducing the number of trumps in the two hands to equality as to number, while West still retains the Ace of Clubs.

Had West opened the Ace of Clubs in the hopes of getting in one of his little trumps, he would not have saved game, for while South would not have made his King of Spades, he would have been able to discard one Spade on the long Club in North's hand and West would have taken one Spade, one Heart and one Club and his partner would have made no tricks whatever.

SALIENT POINTS OF THE BIDDING

Contract—South opens the bidding with one Heart and West overcalls with one Spade. North bids four Hearts in spite of the fact that he holds but three small cards in the suit. His side card holding in Diamonds and Clubs is very strong and he should be enabled to trump one Diamond. This concludes the bidding.

Auction—South bids one Heart; West, one Spade; North, two Hearts and East and South pass. West bids two Spades and North bids three Hearts, concluding the bidding.

THE PLAY

West opens the Ace of Spades followed by the Queen, South taking the latter with the King. Two rounds of Diamonds are taken in the Dummy so that the Heart finesse, if successful, may be taken twice and a trump in the Dummy used on the third Diamond.

The five of Hearts is then led from Dummy, East plays the ten, South the Jack and West takes the trick with the King.

Another high Spade lead from West will now save game, for should Declarer take out West's trumps, West must make the Ace of Clubs and two more Spades. Declarer's best play, therefore, after leading the second round of trumps and finding East with no more is to lead a Club.

Pemberton & Son Announce Attractive Issue by National Paper Box, Ltd.

ASSETS AND REVENUE PROVIDE WIDE MARGIN

Announcement is made today by Pemberton & Son of a new issue of 6½ per cent first mortgage bonds of the National Paper Box, Limited. The issue, which is to mature June 1, 1936, is the first local industrial financing in some months.

National Paper Box, Limited, was incorporated in 1913 by Russell E. Barker and since that time has enjoyed a steadily increasing business heightened during the past few years by the growing use of trade-marked packaged goods. The company is said to operate the most complete plant of its kind west of Toronto and co-operates closely with British Columbia manufacturers in designing attractive display cartons for ice cream, butter, cereals, biscuits, etc. The company numbers among its customers practically all the British Columbia manufacturers of foodstuffs.

The capitalization of the company upon completion of this financing will consist of this closed issue of $100,000 6½ per cent first mortgage bonds and $15,000 outstanding common stock. Net assets of the National Paper Box Limited as at March 31, 1931, amounted to $240,712.97, of which $25,000 was for land and buildings, $115,049.08 for plant and machinery and $100,664.89 net current assets. In addition, the company controls a majority interest of the Victoria Paper Box Limited, and owns shares in other companies and miscellaneous assets having a total value on its books of $193,553.71. All of these investments have been pledged as security for the present bon dissue, so that the total assets behind the bonds is nearly four and one-half times the amount of the bonds.

Depending as it does in large part on the stable food industry, the earnings of the National Paper Box Limited have suffered no decline during the depression. Net earnings for the past four years have been more than nine times the interest requirements on the present issue. Net profits for the year ending March 31 1931, were considerably above those of the year ending March 31, 1930. In the above ratio, earnings received from the company's shares in other companies and from the various miscellaneous investments pledged as security for this issue, have not been included.

These bonds are secured by a closed first mortgage on the entire fixed assets of the National Paper Box Ltd., as well as by a specific pledge of the shares and other assets referred to above, and by a floating charge on the other assets of the company. No dividends will be paid on the company's common shares without the consent of the underwriter, while any of the present issue remains outstanding.

A substantial sinking fund is called for, which is calculated to be more than sufficient to retire the entire issue by maturity.

Proceeds of this financing will be used to retire indebtedness incurred in the recent acquisition of assets by the company and for other corporate purposes.

The management of the company will continue in the hands of Russell E. Barker, who founded the company in 1913. Associated with him will be H. B. Senior and H. W. Smithson, who have been with the company in executive capacities for many years.

At the offering price of $97.50, these bonds yield over 7 per cent to maturity. The call price is $102.

C.N.R. EARNINGS

EXPORT DEMAND IS DIMINISHED

Wheat Prices Close Fractionally Lower—Barley Continues in Request

WINNIPEG, April 16 (CP).—Poor export demand and lower prices on foreign markets combined to inject an uneasy feeling into the wheat market on the Grain Exchange today. Exporters purchased only a few odd lots of Canadian wheat last night and today.

Although the wheat pit was fairly active at times, uneasiness maintained the upper hand and prices closed 1-8 to 1-4c below yesterday's figures, with the May future ending at 61 7-8, July 63 3-8 and October 65 to 63 1-8c per bushel.

Good export demand for barley was the feature of the coarse grains. Prices, however, dropped fractionally in sympathy with wheat. Cash wheat quotations managed to hold unchanged.

Beautiful Blooms Feature Spring Flower Show Held By Comox Horticulturists

COMOX, April 16.—Beautiful blooms featured the Spring Flower Show held in the Community Hall here on Wednesday afternoon. Mayor Macintyre, of Courtenay, opened the show with a few appropriate remarks early in the afternoon. Charles Simms, president of the horticultural branch of the Comox Agricultural Society, introduced the speaker. The arrangements in the hall were in charge of George Edwards, W. J. C. Speaker Forgets Proposed Object Of Meeting Held NANAIMO, April 16.—From the remarks of J. Hitchin, who opened the meeting in the Bijou Theatre last evening, the organizers of the meeting had, apparently, been misled as to its purpose, which was advertised as an address by Mr. Drayton, of Vancouver, on noncontributory unemployment insurance. Mr. Hitchen, in his opening remarks, said the meeting had been called for the discussion of that subject. After quoting figures from The Labor Gazette as to the cost of living, etc., he said they were also there to protest against the brutality of the police and imprisonment of workers for their activities in the interests of the unemployed.

J. Place, ex-M.P.P. for Nanaimo, was introduced as chairman of the meeting. In regard to unemployment insurance, it was, in his opinion, a mistake to ask for a noncontributory scheme at the present time. If the workers would endorse a contributory scheme, action could be had on the matter at the next election, but they would not be able to get one man to support a noncontributory scheme. If they stood together on the contributory plan, one of the parties would make it a plank in their platform.

The speaker of the evening, Mr. Drayton, was then introduced, and in the course of a speech of about an hour's duration, dwelt for almost ten seconds on the subject to be discussed, noncontributory insurance, unless his remarks at the close of his address in connection with the delegation that had interviewed Mr. Bennett on that subject yesterday, could be taken as such. His actual contribution to the subject supposed to be discussed was: "We must stand together for noncontributory unemployment insurance."

Entertainment Given Sunday School Class

ROYAL OAK, April 16.—On Wednesday evening the members of Rev. D. Earl's Sunday school class met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Grant, "Bonnie Doon," for their monthly get-to-gether supper and social evening. A varied and interesting programme followed.

A discussion on municipal and other current topics was held by A. E. Campion, different members expressing their views. Short addresses were also given by Byron McNutt, Mrs. Burnett and Mrs. W. J. Jones. The musical items included pianoforte solos by Miss Margaret Pringle and Mr. Phillips, and vocal solos by W. J. Jones and A. E. Campion.

Red Cross Will Give Patriotic Tea on May 12

NANAIMO, April 16.—With Victor B. Harrison presiding, the regular meeting of Nanaimo Branch, Canadian Red Cross, was held last evening in the Canadian Legion Hall. Tentative plans were made to hold a radio programme in the near future.

The secretary was instructed to write a letter of appreciation to Mrs. T. Coldicutt for entertaining the Red Cross members at dinner and luncheon during their stay in Vancouver recently.

Plans were advanced for a patriotic tea, to be held at the home of Mrs. W. W. Lewis, Newcastle Townsite, May 12, to commemorate the birthday anniversary of Florence Nightingale, in keeping with a scheme promoted by the British Red Cross.

A letter was received from Percy Hart, who is a stretcher patient at the Vancouver Military Hospital, thanking the members of the Red Cross for their visit to the boys and self last week and for the wonderful gifts they brought along with them. Their hope is that the society will again this year give them a picnic to Nanaimo.

Parent-Teachers Meet in Nanaimo

NANAIMO, April 16.—With Mrs. R. T. Wilson presiding, the monthly meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association was held last evening in St. John Hall.

Mr. Miles, the representative of E. R. Squibb & Sons, showed a motion picture and gave a short lecture.

Mesdames Barnard, Wilson and Beck gave reports of the proceedings of the annual Parent-Teacher convention, held at New Westminster during Easter week, and at which Mrs. Barnard was elected first vice-president of the provincial body. The resolutions of the local body placed before the convention were tabled until some future date. An appeal was made to the members to aid the cocoa fund. Cocoa is supplied to the children at the Thomas Hodgson School daily at less than cost, and money is needed to carry on this project, which is sponsored by the Parent-Teachers. A collection was taken to help this work.

Final Basketball Games Saturday At Saanichton

KEATING, April 16.—Basketball fans will witness the final games of this season on Saturday night at the Agricultural Hall, Saanichton, when the Keating teams will battle the West Road cagers. Fast games are expected, as the teams are in top form. Following are the teams:

Keating Girls—Vera Handy, Ann Chisleworth, N. Aimes, J. Anderson, Ona Young, Alice Styan.

West Road Girls—B. McMurchie, J. Alexandra, E. Mathews, M. Peden, B. Armstrong, A. Lalonde.

Keating Senior "C" Men—S. Bates, P. Atkinson, B. Michell, Leo Styan, C. Cunningham, Ray Kersey, S. Smith.

West Road Senior "C" Men—S. Bickford, W. Sluggett, C. Sluggett, A. Bickford, P. Lannon.

West Road Senior "B" Men—George Lannon, C. Sluggett, A. Bickford, P. Lannon, C. Sluggett.

Keating Senior "B" Men—Bob Marchant, R. Michell, Bob Emmert, Pete Turgoose, M. Atkinson, A. Styan.

Lake Cowichan Sport

LAKE COWICHAN, April 16.—Fishing has greatly improved lately, some splendid catches having been made during the week. The trout are beginning to rise to the fly, but trolling is s' 'l more successful..

Badminton still holds sway here as the king of sports, and Tuesday and Thursday evenings find the Community Hall crowded with spectators and enthusiastic players. Some of the starters are beginning to show real professional skill.

Banner Is Presented To Qualicum Church

QUALICUM BEACH, April 16.—At the Choral Eucharist of St. Mark's Church, Qualicum Beach, on Easter Day, a very handsome banner was dedicated by the vicar, Rev. C. H. Popham. The banner, which is of rich crimson and gold material, was presented to the church by Mrs. G. S. Page's embroidery class, and bears on it the saints' emblem, the "Lion," and his motto, "Pax Tibi Marce." It is an exceedingly handsome piece of work, and is one of the many gifts already presented by this class to the church. It is of interest to note that since the year 1280, by the Statutes of Archbishop Peckham of Canterbury, a banner has been ordered as a requisite ornament in every English parish church.

Amateurs Present Varied Programme

LADYSMITH, April 16.—Playing before a capacity house last night, in the Robert's Street Hall, the Young People's Association concert party staged a splendid programme, the performers carrying their parts like veterans. J. W. Atkinson directed the two comedy sketches presented.

Perhaps the stellar performances of the evening were those of the trio, Ed. Macdonald, Alvin Kerr and Ken Reid. Pete Conti made a hit with his audience. The soloists, Miss Daisy Winstanley and Miss Janie Griffin, were really good.

To Miss Ella Bauld goes the credit for arranging the costumes and interior displays for the various acts. The Y.P.A. Orchestra was under the direction of Howard Hartley.

Farm Products Market Letter

The market news letter issued by the Provincial Department of Agriculture, under date of April 15, says:

Egg and poultry prospects—Storage movement is heavier in Montreal and it now appears that Canada will store a normal volume of eggs this year. Hatching operations have been reduced. Mild weather usually forecasts indifferent hatching, and all reports indicate that is just what has taken place this year. The chicken mortality is above the average, and we predict that the demand will be good for early hatched pullets this Fall.

Edmonton—Business is quiet. The apple market is firm with stocks and demand decreasing. Reduced supplies of McIntosh, Newtowns and Staymans on hand, Winesaps and Delicious, etc., are practically cleaned up. The first car of field rhubarb, containing some cauliflower and cucumbers, arrived on April 14. This car was detained for several days by a landslide on the C.P.R., but arrived in fair condition. The cucumbers and cauliflower showing some deterioration. Cucumbers are selling at $3 per dozen, special quality; extra fancy $2.75 and fancy, fifty per box, $2.35 to $2.45. Adequate supplies of local old crop carrots, beets, turnips, parsnips and potatoes with market weak and unchanged. Local leaf lettuce, radishes and green onions increasing in volume weekly. British Columbia onion market stronger, No. 1, repacked, $2.75 to $3.00 per cwt.

Leads Field of Five in 300-Yard Medley Championship Swim Event—Helene Wins

NEW YORK, April 16 (AP).—Eleanor Holm, of the Women's Swimming Association of New York, successfully defended her national championship in the 300-yard medley swim tonight, when she won the opening event in the national women's indoor tournament from a field of five. Her time of 4:22.4 was some six seconds slower than her own world record.

Helene Madison, Seattle, flashed to first place in the 100-yard free-style event, outspeeding her closest rival, Josephine McKim, of Los Angeles. While the Seattle marvel did the distance in the fast time of 1:07.2, she failed to better her own American record of 1:00.4.

The New Home Is Completed

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Whate'er the task you have at hand,
Give it the best at your command.
—Old Mother Nature.

"This," declared Mrs. Redshoulder the Hawk, "is going to be the best nest we have ever had." She sat just above it and looked down at it pridefully.

Redshoulder nodded in agreement. "I believe you," said he. "It ought to be; you have been fussy enough about it."

"Not fussy, my dear. Not fussy. Just particular," replied Mrs. Redshoulder.

"What's the difference?" demanded Redshoulder just a bit grumpily. He was thinking of the sticks he had brought for that nest only to have them thrown aside by Mrs. Redshoulder.

"All the difference in the world," retorted Mrs. Redshoulder. "Fussy people make great ado over unimportant little things or nothing at all. Particular people simply insist on having the best they can get and in doing things the best they know how. I haven't been fussy about the building of this new home of ours, not the least bit fussy. I've just been particular."

"I'll say you have!" declared Redshoulder and chuckled. If the truth be known, he was quite as proud of that nest as she was. "Do you want me to bring any more twigs?"

Mrs. Redshoulder looked at the new nest critically. "No," she replied. "No, I don't think so. If any more are needed, I'll get them myself. What are you chuckling about?"

"Nothing," replied Redshoulder. "Just chuckling because I feel like chuckling. I'm glad you are not fussy, my dear, but are particular. What are you going to line that nest with? The lining is something to be very particular about." His eyes twinkled with mischief.

Mrs. Redshoulder nodded. "It certainly is," said she. "I was particular about the big sticks for the foundation. Every one of them is sound. I was just as particular about those twigs. There isn't a bad one among them, and each has been placed just where it should go. You won't see any of those falling out no matter how the wind blows. Just one or two more and I will be ready for the lining. I know just where I can get some nice strips of bark, and I am going to use a few brown oak leaves. If you happen to see any feathers you might bring a few. They do make a nest look nice."

"I'll go at once to look for some," said Redshoulder, and was as good as his word.

Mrs. Redshoulder was particular about the lining of that nest. She would try a strip of bark in half a dozen places before she was satisfied. Then she would add a few soft feathers, and each of these she placed as carefully as if they were the most important things in the nest, whereas really they were fled. Redshoulder brought half a more ornamental than useful. At last the nest was lined to her satisfaction.

"Not fussy, my dear, not fussy; just particular," replied Mrs. Redshoulder

Redshoulder looked the nest over critically. "Perfect," he declared.

"Not quite, my dear," replied Mrs. Redshoulder and flew away.

"Now what has she gone after?" muttered Redshoulder. He looked the nest over from top to bottom and bottom to top. "Perfect," he repeated. "It doesn't need another thing."

In a few minutes Mrs. Redshoulder returned with a twig from a pine tree. On it were little clusters of pine needles. She tucked it in to the side of the nest. "There," said she, "a little green here and there adds a lot. Suppose, my dear, you bring a few more twigs like this."

Redshoulder chuckled. Without a word he flew away and presently returned with another pine twig. Mrs. Redshoulder took it from him and placed it to her satisfaction. "Yes," said she, "a touch of green certainly adds a lot. Don't you think so?"

"Certainly, my dear. Certainly," replied Redshoulder, and chuckled. "There's nothing like a good appearance. If Hooty the Owl should see this nest I fear he would want to move right over here."

"I'd like to see him do it, the robber!" snapped Mrs. Redshoulder.

A few more green twigs and the nest was completed. Even particular Mrs. Redshoulder could think of nothing more to be desired in it. "Now," said she with a little sigh of pure happiness, "we'll rest for a few days and then I'll settle down to housekeeping."

The next story: "Vacation Days."

SHERLOCK HOLMES—Greek Interprete

The Plot Revealed

By Sir Arthur Conan Doyle

D-20
Sherlock Holmes afterward called on the gentlemen who had answered the advertisement about the unfortunate Sophy Kratides, and was able to obtain information which bore out his deductions as to the story of the girl who had been spirited away from the house where her brother met his death and Mr. Melas almost perished.
The young lady, who came of a wealthy Grecian family, had met Harold Latimer on a visit to friends in England. He persuaded her to elope, as we had suspected. Her shocked friends had contented themselves with notifying her brother in Athens, and had then washed their hands of the whole affair.
Latimer had an associate, Wilson Kemp, we learned by further inquiry, who plotted to get the brother into their power and compel him to sign away his own and his sister's property. Kemp was a man of the foulest antecedents. Kratides, because of his ignorance of the language, was helpless in the hands of these villains. . . .
The girl herself was a prisoner in the house, for there was nobody about except the coachman and his wife, who were tools of the conspirators. Though she had no knowledge that her brother was also a captive she had instantly penetrated his sticking-plaster disguise when she caught sight of him on the occasion of Mr. Melas' first visit. Then . . .

WILL NOT OPEN ZONING BY-LAW

Oak Bay Council Is Not in Favor of Amending Regulations Without Demand

The council of Oak Bay is evidently not inclined to open up the zoning by-law for amendment in order to meet isolated cases. It is rather disposed to allow the by-law to stand until there is some general demand for alterations in the provisions as they affect different streets.

At the meeting of the council last evening an application was made to the council for the opening of the by-law for amendment, so as to allow of an apartment house on Somass Drive. The council decided not to open the by-law until there appeared to be a more general demand for it.

W. Ellis applied to the council for the widening of Beach Drive opposite Seacroft. This was laid over for consideration by the engineer, who pointed out that the request for the widening on the seawall side did not appear practical.

DESTROY HOUSES

The engineer will also look into the subject of the demolition of some buildings which, it was reported, had become rather objectionable. The engineer will also look into a request from T. D. Pattullo relative to trees on Newport Avenue in the vicinity of his home.

The piling of wood on Foul Bay beach was complained of as harboring rats, and will be looked into.

A petition was received from employees for the granting of holidays with pay for one week. The council went on record as being ready to do this, as was done last year, in the case of employees who had been a year in the service.

The chief of police will be asked to deal with a letter from the Automobile Club, which called attention to the practice of bicycle riders violating the rules in not carrying lights or reflectors, and in otherwise violating the rules of the road. It also set out that automobile drivers were violating the rules quite frequently in driving with one light at times and in carrying glaring headlights, which interfered with one meeting them. Other violations were referred to.

The council, on the request of the City Council, decided to vote the same amount for the improving of Foul Bay beach as was voted last year.

NO FREE GRAIN FOR B.C. FARMS

Half Rate Freight Tariff Will Apply, However, for Seed Shipments

While the Province will not distribute seed grain to farmers in the drought areas this year, it will cooperate with farmers' institutes to see that seed grain requirements ordered by the farmers will be carried in from the shipping point at half-fare rates. This was made clear yesterday by Hon. William Atkinson, Minister of Agriculture.

Many inquiries have been received by the department relative to seed grain. In each case the policy that is being followed has been explained, and farmers have been encouraged to make all arrangements for their seed requirements in a co-operative way through the institutes.

Bankers, Mr. Atkinson stated, are willing to finance the transaction in this way, advancing money to the institutes, who in turn obtain security from the farmers on livestock, to cover seed financed in this way. The half-fare freight rates applicable under the system, are a material saving.

In the years 1915, 1917 and 1918 the Province advanced a total of $64,203 to farmers in seed grain purchases. There is still about $20,000 of the sum outstanding, including interest, and return to the practice of giving seed grain in this manner has not been considered advisable under all the circumstances, it is explained. The present policy assists the farmers who are prepared to assume some of the risk themselves.

ACTION AGAINST ARCHITECT FAILS

Burnaby Magistrate Dismisses Charge Launched by Architectural Institute of B.C.

EDMONDS, April 16 (CP).—Magistrate David Gillies dismissed an action brought by the Architectural Institute of British Columbia in Burnaby police court, Wednesday, against ex-Councillor S. Bernard Shewbrooks for an alleged unlawful display of signs advertising himself as an architect. Counsel, for the institute intimated that an appeal may be taken.

Officials of the Architectural Institute gave evidence to the effect that Shewbrooks, although certified approximately ten years ago as a qualified architect, was struck off the rolls in October, 1928, for nonpayment of dues. He therefore, according to the officials, is no longer qualified to act as an architect, not being registered, as required by the act authorizing establishment of the Institute.

Magistrate Gillies, in dismissing the case, said the act made no provision for issuance of a certificate of registration, nor for registration of qualification; therefore, in his opinion, the prosecution could not succeed in its action.

What Today Means

"ARIES"

If April 17 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:15 a.m. to 11:50 a.m., from 3:15 p.m. to 5:30 p.m., and from 9 p.m. to 10:45 p.m. The danger hours are from noon to 2:30 and from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.

According to astrological signs, April 17 will prove to be a day rich in opportunity. Something unexpected, and from an unsuspected quarter, will materialize, and future success depends on the character of its reception. Everyone should be alert, so that the occasion be not lost.

Children born on this April 17 will, owing to the inherent weakness of their characters, never accomplish very much if left to their own resources. They will need to be associated with those of a strong self-assertive nature. They will then give proof of conscientiousness and steady application.

If you were born April 17, you are extremely active, and possess a great capacity for work. Even when you are apparently idling, your brain is not at rest, and you have formulated many a successful plan while—or so it seems to others—you were wasting time. Any task you essay is tackled with such concentration and so much enthusiasm that the final result of your efforts is never in doubt.

Your nature is a generous one, and your sympathies are wide. High ideals, too, form part of your equipment, and if in business, yours will be a hard road to travel, as you will never sacrifice conviction for expediency. In spite of your strength of character, you are rather too trustful of others. The signs denote that, on more than one occasion, you will be sadly let down by those in whom you placed your confidence.

You are rather impatient of those who do not attach the same importance to work as you do, and you will never learn to rest on your oars. Until the grim end, you will always be in harness. You are not bumptious, and, in your family circle, you reign supreme through sweetness of disposition and amiability of character.

ARTILLERYMEN TO HOLD BIG DINNER

Giving promise of being bigger and better than all previous reunion dinners, the annual function of the 15th Brigade, Canadian Field Artillery, will be held at the Empress Hotel on Saturday, May 16. Gordon Cameron has been named chairman. Tickets for the event may be secured from Ralph Cruickshanks, secretary.

SAANICH POLICE COURT

For allowing his cattle to graze on unfenced land, Ditto, a Hindu, was fined $5 in the Saanich police court yesterday. Walter Jessiman was fined $10 for ill treating a bull. Information was laid by G. Allen, S.P.C.A. inspector.

Clarence Sewell paid a fine of $20 for driving to the common danger on North Quadra Street, and six other motorists paid fines of $5 each for failing to stop at "stop" signs.

HEARS ARGUMENT ON VALIDITY OF BY-LAW OF VANCOUVER CITY

VANCOUVER, April 16 (CP).—Argument is being heard in Supreme Court here by Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald on the validity of the city's Vehicle for Hire By-Law, passed by the council on October 6, 1930.

The city, represented by George E. McCrossan, K.C., and Arthur Lord, is appealing from a decision in the police court of Magistrate P. McD. Kerr, who held that five sections of the by-law were ultra vires. The magistrate, in consequence dismissed a charge against Charles E. Johnson of standing his taxi on Abbot Street in a place which had not been so designated by the by-law. He ruled that the by-law's classification between metered and nonmetred taxis was not fair or reasonable.

Eczema on Hands. Unable to Work. Healed by Cuticura.

"Eczema broke out on my face and was in the form of a rash. I used to scratch it and the irritation was sometimes unbearable. The eczema spread to my hands and I was unable to do my regular work or put my hands in water for over a month. They were so sore that I wore rubber gloves when I did any work.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment so purchased some. After the first application I got relief and in two months I was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. William Coward, R. R. 1, Lisgar, Que.
